ARRAIGNMENTS STARTED, TWO GET PEN TERMS

Ten Enter Pleas of Guilty to Indictments in County Court Today.

SIX CASES CONTINUED

Two Who Looted Cafe Sentenced to Ohio Pen; Three Deny Grand Jury Charges.

Ten of 13 persons arraigned in common pleas court this morning on grand jury indictments, returned Friday, pleaded guilty, and two were sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary by Judge C. H. Huston.

Two other defendants were placed on probation, and six cases were continued until next week. No date was set for trial of the three cases in which the prisoners pleaded innocent.

Cafe Robbers Sent To Pen.
Sentenced to the penitentiary for one to 15 years were Ben Grubb, 36, and Robert Hood, 34, transients, who admitted burglarizing the Orange Street cafe of $5 two weeks ago. Both men are colored.

Jewel Harper, 18, Mansfield, who pleaded guilty to operating a car without the owner's consent, was placed on probation until he is 21. He will be required to report regularly to Harry Crouse, county probation officer.

A three-year probation was granted Edwin Schmidt, Mansfield, who pleaded guilty to an indictment for obtaining an automobile under false pretenses. Schmidt also was ordered to report to Crouse.

Sentence Deferred.
Clayton McConkey, Houston, Tex., indicted for issuing a $15 check to the Fairview hotel, Mansfield, with insufficient funds, pleaded guilty through his attorney, A. S. Beach, who asked that sentence be deferred.

Harry Hatfield, Shelby, pleaded innocent to an indictment on a statutory charge involving his 17-year-old daughter. Hatfield is represented by Atty. Frank Culp.

Guilty pleas were entered by the following prisoners and their cases were continued:
Lindsay Schaefer, removing railroad property; Charles O. Collins, issuing check with insufficient funds; Guy Harris, operating car without the owner's consent; David Amato, receiving stolen property; and Love Jacobs, burglary.

Charles Brooks and Clayton Baldwin, both colored, pleaded innocent to indictments for receiving stolen property and petit larceny. Both were allegedly involved in a "ring" which burglarized freight cars of automobile tire shipments and disposed of the tires.

Other persons indicted by the county grand jury which returned 35 indictments two days ago, will be arraigned next week, court attaches said.

Big-Timers Of Football In Action

Bucks Take on Indiana In Opener; Indiana High Team Here Today.

They're all present today for the first big Saturday of the 1938 football season as ideal weather prevailed along all grid fronts.

The late starters are not going about it in any half-hearted way, either.

The mid-west holds the spotlight with a pair of games that feature early-season contenders for the mythical national title—Ohio State vs. Indiana at Columbus and Minnesota vs. Nebraska at Minneapolis.

Before a crowd expected to reach 70,000, the Bucks and Hoosiers got together in a game that may go far toward determining the Big Ten crown. Both teams pinned hopes on untried sophomores.

The Bucks, still smarting from the 10 to 0 upset defeat administered by Indiana last year, ruled slight favorites.

The Minneapolis game will give the Gophers their second severe test in as many weeks, and a victory today will make Minnesota a certain betting favorite in the Big Ten. Minnesota will attempt to do what no other team has ever accomplished—that is, defeat a Buff Jones-coached club in an opening game.

Opening games for the eastern colleges include Yale-Columbia, Cornell-Colgate, Harvard-Brown and Pennsylvania-Lafayette—no soft touches there. Then Pittsburg takes on Temple in a game that looks like the best prospect for an upset.

Sharing the midwestern program with the games at Columbus and Minneapolis is the South Bend encounter between Notre Dame's untied eleven and Kansas.

Rice's mighty team tees off against Oklahoma, while Santa Clara takes on Stanford. Down south the Tulane-Auburn, Mississippi State-Florida and North Carolina-North Carolina State games top the bill. Southern California meets Oregon State and California tackles Washington State on the West coast.

With numerous night games on this week's schedule, the high school slate in the vicinity is scanty today. Topping the bill hereabouts is Mansfield's engagement with Hammond, Ind., at Stadium field.

NEW SQUABBLE

U. S. Commission Gets Protest Over Radio Play Lines.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The federal communications commission is up in the air again over a question of radio censorship.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson of Minneapolis objected, Commissioner T. A. M. Craven said, because Eugene O'Neill's Pulitzer prize play "Beyond the Horizon," broadcast July 28, "the word of God was taken in vain."

The commission split over what should be done, Craven said, finally voting to hold a hearing on the question of renewing the license of Station WTCN, Minneapolis.

Craven said the commission's action was "fraught with danger" and was taken over his objections. "The commission can ill afford to be a party to any movement relating to censorship," he added.

Hobby Display Winners Named As Fall Display Week Closes

With the close of Fall Display week, announcement was made today of the winners in the hobby collection displays which were a part of the annual event this year and which aroused considerable interest in downtown store windows where the collections were displayed.

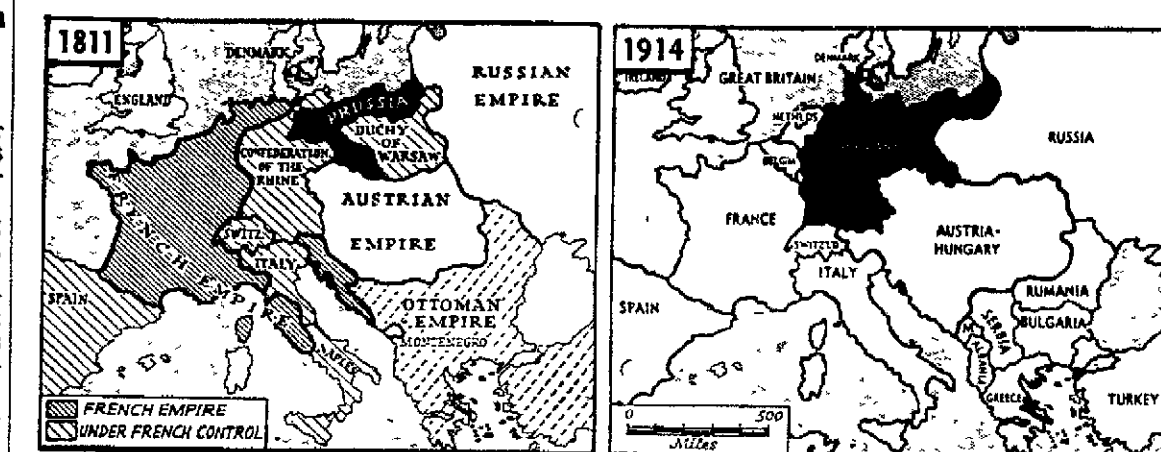

Three members of the Marion Hobby club, E. N. Hale, R. C. Hicks and Rev. John W. Heistand, served as judges. Cash prizes of $5 were awarded the first winners in six classifications, with honorable mention being given to several displays in each classification. In several instances the first prize money was split two ways.

The misspelled word contest also ends today and all entries must be at the office of the Retail Merchants association, Farmers bank building, before 5 p. m. today.

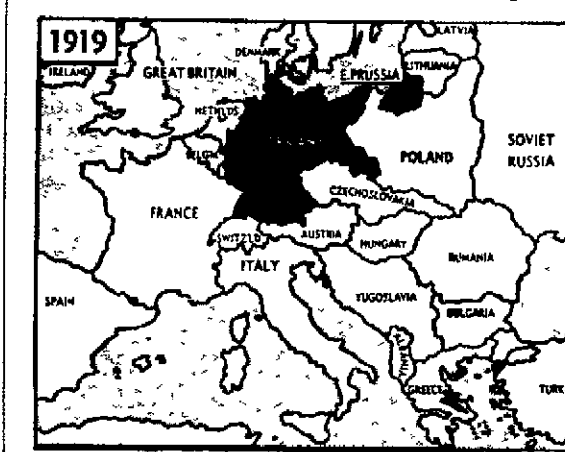

Europe's Changing Map Changes Again

(By Associated Press)

You've read a lot about how Hitler has changed the map of Europe in 1938. But the map of Europe is always being changed by somebody, and chances are that there are still more changes ahead as nations rise and fall in power. Here is what has happened in the last century and a quarter—note the ups and downs of Germany, shown in black:

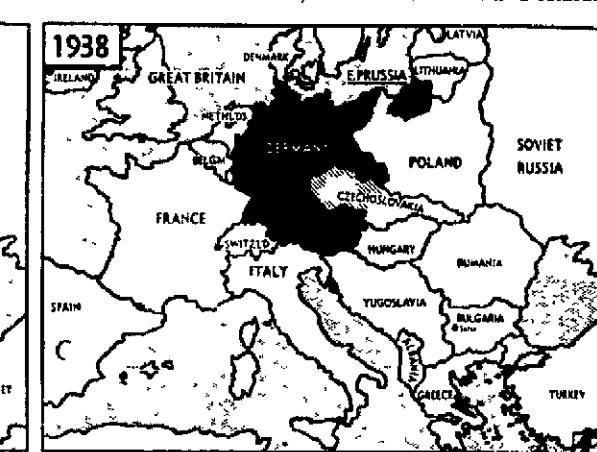

WHEN NAPOLEON was at the height of his power, this is how Europe looked. The French had a huge empire and dominated a number of countries, including smaller German states. Note the size of the Ottoman (Turkish) empire.

AFTER THE WAR, a host of little nations came into being along the Baltic and in central Europe; Austria and Hungary were small, separate states; Poland, independent again, divided Germany; France was larger, Germany smaller.

THE PRE-WAR MAP had changed considerably. The German empire, created in 1870 had part of France, Denmark and Austria. Italy was now a nation, the Balkan states were no longer under Turkish rule, and Russia had Poland.

TODAY Germany is larger than ever because she absorbed Austria early this year and today had started marching into the Sudetenland—shaded on the map—with the consent of the major powers. Hitler says this is his last territorial demand in Europe.

SEEKS 'UNION' OF PENSIONERS

Organizer of Recipients of Aged Benefit Here; Hits At Townsend Plan.

Steps to organize Richland county old age pensioners into their own "union" under the banner of the Ohio Society of Old Age Pensioners were to be taken at a meeting at 2 p. m. today in the common pleas courtroom at the courthouse.

T. J. Johnson, Columbus, chairman of the state society, was scheduled to speak at the session, outlining the aims of the organization in "protecting the interests of the pensioners and attempting to obtain an increase in their monthly payments."

Johnson said his organization opposed the Townsend plan as "impractical," but would work for a government pension of from $50 to $80 a month. The society is already organized in 30 Ohio counties, he said.

M. W. Conley, manager of the county aid for the aged division, said the organization movement had no connection with his department.

"The Ohio Society of Old Age Pensioners is an independent group, organized on a basis similar to that of a union for the protection of an interested group," Conley said.

He added that the state division of aid for the aged had no interest in the organization and would make no recommendations to pensioners or any attempt to hinder the activities of the society.

Quits Cabinet Protesting Britain's Foreign Policy

Cooper, First Lord of Admiralty, Resigns Because of 'Distrust'; Chamberlain Acclaimed as 'Hero.'

LONDON—(AP)—Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, resigned from Prime Minister Chamberlain's cabinet today because he disagreed with Chamberlain's foreign policy. The prime minister accepted the resignation. In his letter of resignation Duff Cooper said: "I profoundly distrust the foreign policy which the present government is pursuing and seems likely to continue to pursue."

In accepting, the prime minister wrote: "Knowing you are sincerely convinced that the foreign policy of the present government is a mistake, I agree with you in thinking it would not be proper for you to remain a member of the government."

BRIGHT SUNDAY

Autumn to Stay on Its Good Behavior, Forecast.

The balmy fall weather was due to stay for at least another day and warmer weather was in the offing for week-end motorists who journeyed to out of town football games, the weatherman predicted today.

A slight drop in the mercury held the temperature to a high of 71 degrees yesterday, but at noon today it hovered at 62 and was due to go higher this afternoon.

The forecast predicted slightly cooler temperatures for tonight with rising temperatures and fair weather for Sunday.

ATTORNEY HITS 'CONSPIRACY'

Rail Union's Lawyer Makes Plea In Pay Cut Protest.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Tom Davis, counsel for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, told President Roosevelt's fact finding commission today that the demand for a 15 per cent railroad wage cut is part of a "conspiracy to cut wages of every worker in the land."

Davis charged the carriers' demand was part of a plot to delay recovery and discredit the Roosevelt administration.

Davis contended that a wage cut would not solve the railroad's problems. He said these problems would remain if the workers took a 50 per cent cut.

ASKS FOR STEEL

Ford Seeks Prices For Material For 50,000 Autos.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Ford Motor company today was reported to have asked prices on steel for 50,000 1939 model automobiles.

WARSAW HAILS 'VICTORY'

But Reports From Teschen Say Minority Poles There Stage Uprising.

(By Associated Press)
WARSAW—Czechoslovakia accepted Poland's territorial demands in full today, thereby averting a threatened invasion.

Under terms of the demands the part of the city of Teschen on the Czechoslovak side of the border will be transferred to Poland before 2 p. m. Sunday (8 a. m. EST).

Within ten days Czechoslovakia will transfer to Poland the remainder of the Teschen district and the entire district of Freistadt.

Matters of other territories and plebiscites will be settled in direct negotiations between Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Prisoners Released.
Czechoslovakia also agreed to release immediately all persons of Polish nationality from the Czechoslovak army and to free all Poles imprisoned for political reasons.

A government communique announcing the settlement, stated that "the Polish government meets with great joy the news of the conclusion of a painful quarrel between the two nations and a settlement corresponding to the peaceful intentions of Poland."

Czechoslovakia, after asking and receiving a one-hour extension on the time limit set by Poland, sent her acceptance in reply to Warsaw's "final" note.

ORDERS OUSTER

Morgenthau Forces Two U. S. Treasury Resignations.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, it was learned today, has forced the resignation of two top-ranking officials to effect a personnel shake-up in the office of the comptroller of the currency.

Through his special assistant, Cyril B. Upham, Morgenthau demanded the resignations of Acting Comptroller Marshall Diggs and Deputy Comptroller G. J. Oppenard. It was understood that he would name Upham as first deputy comptroller, Diggs' regular post.

Treasury officials declined to discuss the changes, but in the background there are differences in banking ideology between the offices of the secretary and the comptroller.

CZECHS GRIEVED OVER 'SELL OUT'

Gather In Small Groups to Discus Decree, But Head Pleas to Accept It.

(By Associated Press)
PRAGUE—Czechs, many of whom were saying "We have been sold out," paced the streets of the capital today, collecting in small groups to discuss the government's decision to accept Germany's demand for Sudetenland.

It was unwise to speak in a foreign language in the streets of Prague, principally because of the danger of being misunderstood. A Danish newspaper correspondent, Sven Nielson, was struck in the face while talking English.

The little republic which struggled through 20 years of independence was saddened by cession of the Sudeten territory to Germany, but the Czechs appeared to be heeding the admonition of President Eduard Benes, Premier Gen. Jan Syrový and Gen. Ludwig Krejci, commander-in-chief of the army, to refrain from demonstrations.

The population heard that the soldiers' premises said in a broadcast that Czechoslovakia had been deserted by France and that the nation was making a vast sacrifice for peace.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Fanny Brice sought a divorce from Billy Rose today in a complaint that avoided mention of the producer's romance with Eleanor Holm, the Olympic swimmer.

Reluctantly bringing suit after giving up hopes that Rose would come back to her, the comedienne filed a brief complaint. She charged the five-foot Broadway impresario with mental cruelty.

Rush For '39 Licenses Proves 'Don't Put Off' Adage True

Mansfield drivers who procrastinated in obtaining an operators license for 1938-39 until after the deadline, today found themselves "sardined" in long lines at the Auto club, where licenses were being issued with the speed of the axiomatic hot cakes.

At the beginning of the week the sales of licenses was far behind the same period for last year, but today it seemed certain that this year's sale would top last year's.

More than 2,000 licenses were sold yesterday, according to Frank Beverstock, deputy registrar, bringing the total this morning to 10,914.

Beverstock said yesterday's sales would be topped today. Late yesterday afternoon the waiting line extended a half block down the street from the Auto club office, and this morning before the office opened another line had formed.

Yesterday was the deadline for old licenses. Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today that while no concerted drive would be made against drivers without licenses, if drivers are stopped for any other reason or are involved in collisions or accidents, and found to be driving with the old licenses, arrests would be made for violation of the driving law.

BULLETIN
EGER—(AP)—Czechoslovak troops and police today withdrew from Egerland—the north-west corner of the Sudeten rim—though under the Munich agreement they were not required to do so until Wednesday.

WITH GERMAN ARMY IN THE FIELD—(UP)—The German army entered Czechoslovak Sudetenland at the zero hour of 2 p. m. today (8 a. m. EST).

The army of occupation crossed the frontier exactly at the zero hour between Helfenberg and Finsterau, near the Czech border of what was formerly Austria.

Col. Gen. Wilhelm Joseph Franz Ritter von Leeb was in command. The German war machine had triumphed without the firing of a shot but it had been prepared for action.

Efficiency such as astounded the world when the imperial army went into action in 1914 marked the preparations for this march.

Move During Night.
Since dawn the troops had been poised ready for the order to advance. They moved up during the night, under cover of darkness.

Four hours before the zero hour came the order to grand headquarters that the advance into zone (Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

RESUMES RISE

Business, Employment Retains Upward Swing.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—An upward trend in business, apparent a month ago, continued through August and the first three weeks of September, the fourth district federal reserve monthly business review said today.

There was, however, a tendency to postpone commitments in some lines, the report stated.

Employment in the fourth district increased slightly in almost every city in August and it appeared likely that the rise would continue in September. An increase in payrolls greater than the rise in employment showed that employees were working more hours, the report said.

The number of manufacturing employees increased in Ohio 3.5 per cent in August over July while payrolls increased 10.8 per cent.

A Farmer's Diary

Beans and Beetles.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ALL summer long we have had string beans. I started planting about the first of May and every two weeks until the last of August I planted two long rows across the lot.

I always like to watch the strong, curved necks of beans crack through the upper crust of soil, and bear the two seed leaves upon the straightened stem. From these, the plant drains all the food, until their upper surface turns green and performs in part, the function of the growing leaves.

In the early summer, the beans grew strong and vigorous. The leaves were a hardy green, and perfect. Not a single puncture was visible I looked across the rows, and smiled contentedly, while abundant bloom formed, and showed white specks, peeping through the green of the foliage.

I picked the long, round, tender pods in mid-July, and sold them to the grocer, but always kept a goodly share to can, and for our table. The fine flavor of fresh-picked beans, creamed and seasoned, is beyond my power to describe.

The later plantings were not so fortunate. The hard-shelled Mexican beetle, an olive bug, with dark spots in even rows across the back, laid eggs upon the under side of the bean leaves, and soon the entire surface showed punctures. As the brood increased, the tender stalks of a week ago looked like a sieve. The numerous mid-ribs were all that was left.

I counted as many as ten large, yellow, woolly larvae on the under side of some leaves, sucking the very life blood out. The promising rows now looked like bony fingers, rattling in the breeze. I let the brood of turkeys roam the infested patch, but they followed the fleeing grasshoppers, and turned up their little beaks at the yellow, woolly invaders.

I hope our extension farms will find some enemy soon that will successfully combat the Mexican beetle. Poison spray will never do the trick.

GERMAN-FRENCH PEACE TREATY SEEN IN FUTURE

Friendship Pact, Arms Slash Loom as Berlin Welcomes Hitler as 'Conqueror.'

(By United Press)

BERLIN—A German-French friendship agreement and negotiations for a general limitation of armaments are expected to complement the Munich agreement on Sudetenland and the historic British-German renunciation of war, it was reported today.

This disclosure was made today as Adolf Hitler returned to Berlin and a Nazi triumph.

It was asserted in most reliable quarters that a German-French declaration of friendship was actually in process of preparation and might be issued at any time.

Non-Aggressive Pact.

Government quarters said that this declaration would be of the same character as that announced at Munich yesterday by Hitler and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain—equivalent to a non-aggression pact, which they regarded as defining both agreements.

Hitler came back to Berlin and a Nazi triumph today.

A million Germans massed at the Anhalter railroad station, in the streets and in the road Wilhelmplatz before his chancellery, cheered and sang in jubilation at Hitler's triumph in annexing Czechoslovak Sudetenland to his German Reich.

He had brought 3,500,000 more Germans into the greater Germany, after the 7,500,000 whom he brought in with Austria a little more than six months ago.

He had defied the world and again he had triumphed.

Today, his reception was that of a conqueror.

The Fuehrer had traveled overnight by railroad from Munich where he signed the four-power Sudetenland agreement and with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain agreed that Germany and Britain must never fight each other again.

2. "Poland does not recognize the separation of Europe into countries of second and third classes, and especially will never permit Poland to be treated as a second-class country."
3. "Since Poland was not invited to the Munich conference (at which French, Italian and British statesmen agreed to accede to Adolf Hitler's demands that four districts of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German territory be granted Germany), Poland cannot be bound by decisions of that conference."

Britain's Lord of Admiralty Resigns as Chamberlain Gets Hero's Salute.

dissenter even from the original Anglo-French plan of Sept. 19 for the cession of the Sudeten areas to Germany.

Chamberlain Lauded As Britain's Hero.

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain joined the ranks of Britain's heroes today—the popular idol of this undemonstrative land.

In the hours since he brought back from Munich yesterday the four-power Czechoslovak peace pact and his friendship agreement with Adolf Hitler, Chamberlain has been: Compared to Disraeli, nicknamed "the peace maker," praised by the king and photographed with the queen.

A lot of those who took part in the tumultuous reception for the home-coming premier, however, only a week ago were yelling for him to resign.

And even though today Britain's newspaper writers paraded their Sunday adjectives in his praise, he must face a different reception Monday.

Then he will go before the House of Commons to hear what the opposition has to say not only about his peace, but what he paid for it and the reasons why he thought it was necessary.

When the house met last Wednesday after Chamberlain had declared there was only a scant hope of averting a war, the opposition prepared speeches in support of the government. His announcement that negotiations had been reopened through Hitler's decision to hold a four-power conference brought riotous cheering.

Now, however, he must face the criticism of labor, of "Elder Statesmen" Winston Churchill, and of his old enemy, Lloyd George. It appeared certain that he would have tremendous support, and it may be that the opposition, in view of his present popularity, may postpone its criticism.

Chamberlain has changed his policy in no material way. He has continued talking to Hitler and Mussolini and the outcome of those talks was the cause of Britain's celebration yesterday. He has stayed out of Spain.

Defending Champs Win N.C.O. Opener

(Special to The News-Journal)
GALION—High school gridsters of Galion successfully opened their defense of the N. C. O. toga last night when they marched to a 21 to 6 victory over Ashland.
Held scoreless in the first half, Coach Johnny Burnison's Orangemen registered three touchdowns in the third and fourth periods to take the decision.

Eugene Jack, who discarded a pair of crutches just two days ago, was the sparkplug for the Galionites, who hung up 12 first downs to four for the visitors.

The victory was the third straight for the unbeaten Orangemen, while the defeat was the first of the season for John Longley's athletes.

Neither team was able to advance beyond the 25-yard line in the first half as fumbles were frequent. Galion reached the 25 and 33-yard lines, but Ashland held on both occasions. A feature of the first half was a 45-yard run by Burns of Ashland.

The first touchdown was scored a minute and a half after the intermission on an intricate forward-lateral. Corrado tossed a short pass to Ernst, who lateraled to Maidens. Maidens went across the line on the 52-yard gain.

Just before the end of the quarter, Chorpensing covered Durtshi's fumble on a punt on Galion's 14 to set the stage for the lone Ashland score. Pugliesi tallied from the one on a wide run.

Jack climaxed a 73-yard march for the second Galion score early in the fourth period with a plunge from the five. An interception by Ernst put Galion in position for the last touchdown. Durtshi scored on a reverse from the three. Hocker kicked all three points from placement.

The game ended with Galion in possession of the pigskin on the two.

Extra Points Win for 'Cats'

Ohio U. Stages Rally to Trim Xavier, 14-12.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio University's Bobcats are still unconquered, thanks to Full-back Leonard Janiak's unerring kicks from placement and Quarterback Johnny Montgomery's bullet passes.

The Athens machine, in a thrilling second half comeback, nosed out Xavier University's Musketeers at Cincinnati last night, 14 to 12.

Janiak's two points after touchdown represented the margin of victory in the Buckeye conference tilt.

The Musketeers dominated the first half. Montgomery's frequent forward passes and Janiak's plunges behind a battling line high-lighted the second half.

Elsewhere on the Buckeye grid front, Dayton crushed Georgetown, Ky., 45 to 0, Denison's "Big Red" humbled Kenyon, 34 to 0 and Muskingum trounced Bluffton, 20 to 7.

Dayton's Flyers rode over the Kentuckians at will, piling up a comfortable 20-point margin in the opening period. Coley McDonough, Jack Padley and Fred George accounted for a pair of touchdowns apiece.

At Granville, the husky Denison contingent took the lords of Kenyon in stride. After crossing the goal once in the first period, the "Big Red" tallied twice in the second and once in the third and fourth periods.

Muskingum scored in all but the third period in the one-sided encounter against Bluffton. Teltow of Bluffton dashed 90 yards for a second period touchdown.

'It's a Tough Life!'

GABBY... not as contented as he looks here.

Hartnett Shows Strain as Injuries Pile Up; Cubs' Pitching Staff Worn to a Frazzle.

By GAYLE TALBOT

ST. LOUIS—Gaby Hartnett sat glumly on the bench here today, two fingers of his big right hand shrouded in tape and gauze, as his weary Chicago Cubs battled the St. Louis Cardinals in their vital doubleheader, the offspring of yesterday's 7-7 tie game.

When his players needed his steady influence and potent bat most, Hartnett found himself benched, unable to lend them more than moral encouragement. He didn't even know whether he would be ready to catch in the world series next week if his Cubs should nose out the Pittsburgh Pirates for the National League pennant.

Tip Gets Finger.

One finger already was injured before yesterday's game. The other went out of commission when a foul tip caught it squarely, jamming the first two joints and ripping the nail nearly off. Gabby was blue about it, and a far different man from the jolly, red-faced traveling salesman he was before he took over the management of the Cubs two months ago.

"It's a tough life," he mourned. "First Augie Galan goes out with a bad knee, then I get cracked up. But I still think we'll get 'em today."

Yesterday's tie was a heart-breaker for the Cubs, who had won the last 10 straight. They blew what looked like a safe 6-1 lead in the early innings.

The way the Cards fought and scratched, incidentally, one would think they still had a shot at the flag. They used four pitchers and a wagon-load of pinch-hitters in their successful effort to head off the Cubs.

After having won 20 of their last 24 starts, the Cubs give the impression that they have about come to the end of their tether. Even if they do stagger in today or tomorrow, they cannot possibly be at their best when they face the Yankees in the opening world series game next Wednesday.

Up to Root, Page.

Only the fact that his pitching staff is worn to a frazzle would have forced Hartnett to nominate Carley Root and Vance Page for today's two vital games.

Hartnett isn't the only one showing the strain. All of the Cubs, including the coaches, act like fit subjects for a convalescent ward. They are so jittery that pop flies throw them into confusion.

Hank Needs Two Over Week-End to Tie Ruth

CLEVELAND—(UP)—Hank Greenberg of Detroit began his last 1938 assault on Babe Ruth's 60-home run record today as the Tigers began the last series of the season against Cleveland. The two clubs will play a double-header Sunday as a result of Friday's postponement. Denny Galehouse of the Indians was to oppose Harry Eisenstat of the Tigers in the starting pitching roles.

MANSFIELD TEAMS OPEN H. C. O. SEASON SUNDAY

The Leiderskrantz and Art Hilborn all-star teams of Mansfield will open their N.C.O. Traveling League schedules Sunday. In a match at the Meder alleys at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, the Leiderskrantz club will meet Fremont. Hilborn's team is scheduled at Norwalk Sunday.

Hot National League Race May End Today--If

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

THERE is a chance—more than a faint one—that the National League race may end today just short of exhaustion for everyone concerned.

If Chicago's Cubs manage to win both games of their double-header with the St. Louis Cardinals where they could not break a 7-7 deadlock before darkness caught them yesterday, or if the Cubs win one game and Pittsburgh's Pirates lose another to Cincinnati, it will be all over. Otherwise it can't end before Sunday, the final day of an exciting season.

There was a somewhat similar situation yesterday, but the Pirates pulled out by the skin of their teeth by whipping the Reds, 4-2, in the second game of their twin bill after Cincinnati's Paul Derringer had let them down with five hits to take the opener, 7-1. This, combined with the Chicago-St. Louis deadlock, left them standing in this way:

Club..... W..... L..... Pct. Behind Play Chicago..... 88..... 61..... .591..... 2 Pittsburgh..... 86..... 62..... .581..... 1 1/2 St. Louis..... 85..... 63..... .571..... 1 1/2 Cincinnati..... 84..... 64..... .564..... 2 1/2

The only thing that keeps the game and a half that is Chicago's margin from looking as big as a mountain is that if the Cubs don't lose, the Cubs also must win twice. Two Pittsburgh triumphs and two defeats in three games would leave them virtually tied, but by playing fewer games the Pirates would gain the edge of one percentage point, .547 to .536.

Derringer gained his 21st victory of the season yesterday with

Ram Team Edges Crestline 26-19

Whippets Keep Goal Line Uncrossed in Revenge Victory Over Mt. Vernon in Opener.

By CHARLES MARTIN

A SPECTACULAR 53-yard touchdown march in the fading minutes of the final period enabled the undefeated Rams of Madison high to break a 19-all tie and topple a dangerous Crestline high grid team, 26 to 19, in a thrill-packed contest in the first nocturnal game at Crestline last night before a near capacity crowd.

The winning touchdown drive, aided by a 25-yard penalty on pass interference, started from the Rams' 30-yard stripe and ended with Gene Harmon sweeping around his own left end for the score.

Crestline, fighting desperately to knock Madison out of the unbeaten list, gave the winners a real scare before it was over.

Coach Al Fendrick's smooth working outfit broke the ice last night midway in the second period when Harmon, who tallied three touchdowns, broke loose with a brilliant piece of broken field running on a 37-yard jaunt in which he eluded five tacklers. Joe Miller split the uprights with a perfect placement to give his team a 7 to 0 lead.

The advantage was short, however, for the blue and white Crestline club, smiting from the set-back suffered at Galion last week, scored on the next kick off. Bob Frye turned the trick with a 52-yard gallop through the entire Madison club. And then Paul Keltner tied the score at seven-all with a nifty drop kick.

The touchdown set off a spark for Merle Hutson's machine as the club recovered a Madison fumble on the Rams' 30 and drove to another marker to take a lead it held until the final stanza.

Phil Ganni turned the fumble into a score when he heaved a long pass to Frye in the end zone. This time Keltner failed to convert and Crestline led, 13 to 7.

The Rams came back strong after the intermission when Gene Harmon dropped back to his own 31 and rifled a pass which Bill Wilkins snagged on Crestline's 25 and raced over to tie the score.

The tie didn't last long for Crestline soon recovered another Madison fumble, this time on the Rams' 18. On the first play, Grim tossed to Harrison for the score, and although Frye's plunge for the point was stopped cold, Crestline held a 19 to 13 lead.

But from there on in Madison completely dominated the tilt. The Rams took the next kickoff on their own 45 and on three straight first downs penetrated to Crestline's eight. After two smashes at the line failed, Harmon picked up the pigskin and streaked around end for the club's third score. Miller's kick for the point was wide, and the score stood at 19-all.

The Rams lost a total of 105 yards via penalties, while Crestline was set back 15. Madison chalked up 12 first downs to Crestline's three.

Bliss Spearhead Of Shelby Attack

By JOHN GRAY

SHELBY—Championship prospects took on a longer haul for Shelby high grid football last night when Coach Bill Querry's Whippets opened their N. C. O. conference slate with an impressive 20 to 0 victory over Mt. Vernon.

Before a crowd of 2,500, the Whippets, who have not had their goal line crossed this year, completely outplayed the visiting Jackets to register their third straight triumph.

Harold Bliss again served as the spearhead of the Shelby offense, but Joe Miller and Bill Yaskic, not to mention a host of other Whippets, contributed their share to the victory which enabled the Querrymen to avenge the 21 to 0 setback administered by the Jackets last fall.

Shelby scored twice through the air and once from the ground, and had another touchdown called back in the fourth period when

Bellville Club Too Strong for Freds

(Special to The News-Journal)

BELLVILLE—Coach Royd Hodges' powerful touchdown machine went into high speed here yesterday by smothering Fredericktown 58 to 0, to chalk up its third straight victory.

Bellville, playing most of the game without the services of its star fullback, Beryl Balliett, who was on the sidelines nursing a leg injury, struck fast and furious to pile up a lead that was never threatened.

Paced by Harold Hamilton who crossed into pay dirt four times, the unbeaten Bellville club turned on the steam and in two minutes had tallied its first score. Sheriff kicked the extra point.

From there on in the winners were never pressed as they added three touchdowns in the second period, and two each in the third and fourth.

Fredericktown held a weight advantage, but was unable to do anything against the hard charging Bellville forwards. The Freds' attack was never able to function to any degree for Bellville's linemen were continuing halting their runners before they could get going.

The only time Fredericktown threatened was in the third when they chalked up two first downs to drive to Bellville's 28-yard marker. The Freds' attack sagged at this point when they fumbled the ball.

Sheriff followed Hamilton in the scoring column with three touchdowns, and Melvin Stough, who replaced Balliett in the lineup

Cuemen, Elks Close Skeds At Fair Lot

Baseball will make its last stand of the season in Mansfield, Sunday, when the Rex Billiards engage the colored Elks in a double header at the Fairground at 1:30 p. m. The two teams have met three times this year, with the Elks winning two of the decisions.

Pitchers Manager John Stoner will have available to throw against the Elks, who won a pair of games from the Hi-Speeds last Sunday, are Patterson, Smith, Moore and Harmon. May and Hecker will work behind the plate.

Dewey Durant's American Legion team will swing down the lid of its schedule Sunday, when it goes to Lucas to meet the Lucas Merchants in the first game of a double-header. Lucas will meet Nashville in the other game. Dudley or Geiger will hurl for the Legionnaires.

a clipping penalty was inflicted against the Whippets. The penalty nullified a 92-yard touchdown run by Bliss, who weaved through the entire Mt. Vernon team after taking a punt on his eight.

Bliss was Shelby's most effective ball carrier. In addition to the 92-yard run called back on the infraction, the fleet-footed fullback reeled off a number of other lengthy gains, running from a few yards up to 29.

Last touchdown of the game on a 29-yard sweep in final quarter. Yaskic crossed the goal line with the other two touchdowns. In the second period, two minutes before the intermission, Miller pitched to Yaskic on third down, and the end snapped the throw on the invaders' 45 and went all the way. The pass netted the Whippets a gain of 69 yards.

The second touchdown came in the third period after Miller threw to Terman on the 20. On the next play, Miller tossed to Yaskic in the end zone. Yaskic took the pass while lying on his stomach in the end zone where he had slipped.

Terman converted the extra point after this and the first touchdown via placements with his toe.

Mt. Vernon, behind 11 to 4 in first downs, threatened only once. That was in the second period when the Jackets recovered Bliss' fumbled punt on the Shelby 25. The Jackets never got beyond the eight where the Whippets held for downs.

BUCYRUS—Norwalk high gridmen, beaten by both Ashland and Shelby, battled the Bucyrus Redmen to a 7 to 7 tie here last night.

Seek First Victory In Game Scheduled at 2:30 p. m. At League Park.

ANOTHER interesting football game is in prospect for followers of the semi-professional brand of the sport at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at League park.

The Kallmerten & Baer Coals will make their second appearance of the season against the Struthers A. C. grid machine, which holds its own in semi-pro football in the state year after year.

Add Illini Star.

Strengthened by the addition of Bill Hall, a former freshman star at Illinois, Coach Gip Miller's team will be better prepared for the tussle than it was for the opener a week ago last Sunday.

The Coals went into the fray with the Pi Rho Phis of Detroit with only a few days of practice,

Future Mansfield High Grid Foes Break Even

Future Mansfield high grid foes scheduled last night broke even, with Sandusky and Shelby accounting for the victories and Ashland and Columbus East suffering losses.

The Blue Streaks took the measure of Toledo Waite, 6 to 0, and Shelby walloped Mt. Vernon, 20 to 0, to keep its goal line uncrossed. Ashland bowed to Galion, 21 to 6, while East fell before Columbus North, 30 to 12.

but they displayed plenty of promise as they bowed by a 12 to 6 count.

This week the Kallmerten & Baer club will be perfectly conditioned, Coach Miller said. He expects the addition of Hall to strengthen the running game considerably. Hall also is a fine booter.

Hall will probably be placed at right halfback, with Rabbit Siler, Vern Heiser and Harper Au rounding out the backfield.

Changes Planned.

Several changes are planned in the line in an attempt to speed up the Coal's running game, but Miller was unable to say definitely today just how the forward wall would line up.

Struthers will be represented by a light, fast club, which promises to emulate the record of the 1937 team, beaten only once.

Score Twice In Final Half To Win Home Opener.

LOUDONVILLE—The Red Birds of Loudonville high opened their home season here yesterday by defeating a stubborn New London team, 13 to 0.

Loudonville broke the ice in the third period with a touchdown and then added another in the final chapter. Both markers were scored on short drives. Leonard Glover plunged over for the first score and Joe Allerdine added the second. Allerdine also added the extra point on a placement in the third period.

New London, which was humbled by Madison last week, fought the Red Birds on even terms for two periods, but were unable to hold off the battering Loudonville backs after the intermission. Both clubs chalked up four first downs.

Defending Champs Win N.C.O. Opener

(Special to The News-Journal)

GALION—High school gridsters of Galion successfully opened their defense of the N. C. O. toga last night when they marched to a 21 to 6 victory over Ashland.

Held scoreless in the first half, Coach Johnny Burnson's Orangemen registered three touchdowns in the third and fourth periods to take the decision.

Eugene Jack, who discarded a pair of crutches just two days ago, was the sparkplug for the Galionites, who hung up 12 first downs to four for the visitors.

The victory was the third straight for the unbeaten Orangemen, while the defeat was the first of the season for John Longley's athletes.

Neither team was able to advance beyond the 25-yard line in the first half as fumbles were frequent. Galion reached the 25 and 33-yard lines, but Ashland held on both occasions. A feature of the first half was a 45-yard run by Burns of Ashland.

The first touchdown was scored a minute and a half after the intermission on an intricate forward-lateral. Corrado tossed a short pass to Ernst, who lateraled to Maidens. Maidens went across the line on the 52-yard gain.

Just before the end of the quarter, Chorpene covered Durtchi's fumble on a punt on Galion's 14 to set the stage for the lone Ashland score. Puglisi tallied from the one on a wide run.

Jack climaxed a 73-yard march for the second Galion score early in the fourth period with a plunge from the five. An interception by Ernst put Galion in position for the last touchdown. Durtchi scored on a reverse from the three. Hocker kicked all three points from placement.

The game ended with Galion in possession of the pigskin on the two.

HEATH TRAILS FOX BY FOUR POINTS IN BAT RACE

NEW YORK—(UPI)—Two serious contenders for the major league batting championship moved up to challenge Jimmy Foxx, the American league leader, and Ernie Lombardi, the National league pace setter, in last week's games, according to the averages released today and including games of Thursday.

Jeff Heath, Cleveland outfielder, added eight points to his average to take second place in the American league with .343. Foxx, however, held the lead with .347 despite a drop of three points.

Ohio U. Stages Rally to Trim Xavier, 14-12.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio University's Bobcats are still unconquered, thanks to Full-back Leonard Janiak's unerring kicks from placement and Quarterback Johnny Montgomery's bullet passes.

The Athens machine, in a thrilling second half comeback, nosed out Xavier University's Musketeers at Cincinnati last night, 14 to 12.

Janiak's two points after touchdown represented the margin of victory in the Buckeye conference tilt.

The Musketeers dominated the first half. Montgomery's frequent forward passes and Janiak's plunges behind a battling line high-lighted the second half.

Elsewhere on the Buckeye grid front, Dayton crushed Georgetown, Ky., 45 to 0, Denison's "Big Red" humbled Kenyon, 34 to 0 and Muskingum trounced Bluffton, 20 to 7.

Dayton's Flyers rode over the Kentuckians at will, piling up a comfortable 20-point margin in the opening period. Coley McDonough, Jack Padley and Fred George accounted for a pair of touchdowns apiece.

At Granville, the husky Denison contingent took the lords of Kenyon in stride. After crossing the goal once in the first period, the

There is nothing of more value to the outdoorsman than comfortable and serviceable footwear. Yuncker Bros. have made a special effort to provide the proper foot gear for the hunter as well as the fisherman. Many hunting trips have been a disappointment on account of ill fitting foot gear. It will pay you fellows who are going out for big game as well as upland shooting to look over the stock of Yuncker Bros. They can supply the most exacting customer.

The Richland County Fish and Game Association will hold their regular meeting at the Park Tuesday evening, Oct. 4th. All members are asked to be present as there will be some important business coming up for the fall campaign.

The annual dog show of the Richland County Fish and Game Association will be held at the fair grounds Oct. 9th. Harold Lutz will be the acting chairman of the show. This show is for sporting dogs only.

After looking over many kinds of hunting clothes of as many manufacturers, all considered, I think the average sportsman will agree that the Red Head "Squaltex" is the last word in hunting clothes. They have everything, lightness, waterproof and durable, and the cost is reasonable.

Joe Hiestand, the world champion long run target buster, won his title with Western shells. This is an outstanding demonstration of the value of Western Shells.

Squirrel hunters report a good season. Many of our local hunters took the limit the first day. The woods are dry and a good rain will help as there are no nuts. The squirrels are working on oak and the nearby corn fields.

Many Beaglers will be pleased to know that "Blackfork Honey Boy" is at stud at the Frozen Hill Kennel, Mt. Gilboa, Ohio. This hound has to his credit more winners than any beagle stud in this country.

"Big Red" tallied twice in the second and once in the third and fourth periods.

Muskingum scored in all but the third period in the one-sided encounter against Bluffton. Tetlow of Bluffton dashed 60 yards for a second period touchdown.

What if Bunds Decided to Absorb Ohio? Canadians Aren't Anxious for War

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IF THE German bunds in America should settle in Ohio and Pennsylvania, for instance, and Hitler should decide that because they were predominantly German in sympathies, he would take over this territory, would England, France and Italy get together and decide that he should have it, in order to preserve world peace?

It sounds silly—but it happened to a little democracy in Europe this week. Just like that. And the country itself had nothing to say about it. It was "sold down the river" because the powerful nations of Europe were afraid to say "no" to an erstwhile paper-hanger and painter who came out of oblivion eight years ago.

The amazing, the unbelievable, has happened. A little man whom the world dislikes exceedingly has jerked the tail of the British lion, thumbed his nose at the fleur-de-lis of France, cracked the whip over Mussolini, ignored Russia—and made them all cry "Heil Hitler!"

But you have not seen the end.

PERHAPS one of the reasons why Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of Great Britain, forced his country to back down and bend a knee before Hitler the Great was because he realizes that the powerful English colonies are getting restless at being yoked to a mother country that is constantly in hot water.

The Canadians certainly are not anxious to fight. There is a very distinct difference between the people of Ontario and the provinces to the west of Canada, and the Quebecers. The central and western provincials are largely English by tradition and background, and are inherently loyal to the English crown, but even they are beginning to feel that Canada might be better off as an independent democracy.

ON THE other hand the people of Quebec are a conquered people, still passionately loyal to the French language, French traditions, religion, and customs. They have not forgotten that a belligerent English army under Wolfe scaled the walls of old Quebec less than 200 years ago and made captive the French settlers in the New World. The French blood—of Abraham—plains of destiny—has not been forgotten. It wells up in the olive cheeks of young Quebecers when they say: "We are loyal to England, of course—but we do not want to fight for her in a quarrel that does not concern us. Before the World War we Canadians voted not to support England with troops—but we had to go just the same. It would be much better, don't you think, if Canada were free and made friendly treaties with the United States?"

An educated young Frenchman at St. Anne de la Pénitence said, when I asked him where his loyalty would be if England and France had trouble, "I hope that time will never be, but of this you may be sure—Quebec will NEVER lift a hand against its mother country, not even for England!"

DON'T ever order sandwiches while visiting in Quebec or in Gaspe. The sandwich is an American institution that simply can't be grasped by the province people. You can order a ham sandwich, but what you get will amaze you. I got two thick slices of white bread, nicely spread with butter. And coffee is something else you had better forego. Their tea is very fine, but their coffee—well, it's tea, too.

THE best food we had on the trip was at St. Flavie where Monsieur Colombe ("Mr. Pea Soup in English," he gaily informs guests) presides at his Lafayette hotel. He is proud of his food and is famous for his hospitality.

"Mrs. President Roosevelt, she stop here, for she ave 'eard of my shrimp salad," he said. "She like my salad and I like Mrs. Roosevelt," he said happily. His own creation, a salmon pie, is something for your list of "different" dishes. Monsieur Colombe's good wife flakes salmon with mashed potatoes, adds rich cream and bakes it in a rich pie dough, making the pie with two crusts.

But I reneged on the dessert at Grand Vallee where you can have your choice of maple syrup with thick cream poured into a bowl of it, or strawberry preserves with cream.

Me—I took another slice of pickle for dessert!

FAIR ENOUGH!

With No Reason to Fight, Duce's Legions Probably Would Have Lost in War

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Will Rogers used to say that this country couldn't go to war just now "because we haven't got a slogan." And for all Mussolini's talk of going to war for Germany, he is in a similar fix. Mussolini hasn't even the shadow of a grievance or a cause to offer the Italian people, who when the cheering dies down, would have to do the suffering and dying in person. There are no Sudeten Italians, and all the Italians who once clamored for Anschluss with Italy were rescued after 1918.

Nobody was bending the Italian frontiers anywhere, and indeed, the object of the alteration or correction of frontiers should be particularly touching to Italians in view of the fact that their frontiers now inclose territory which, in any readjustment consistent with the principles which the Duce recently flung at Czechoslovakia, would be ceded back to the rightful owners. Both the Duce and Hitler have conspicuously avoided mention of the God-created Germans who have known the true meaning of persecution under Mussolini in the captured Tyrol.

Mussolini always had made it plain that Italy, in war, has renounced her amateur standing. His main complaint against Britain and France has been that they gyped Italy of her fair share of the purse for the last World War, and he was again frankly professional when he went into Ethiopia. In the World War the spirit of the Italian people was nourished on the cause of their persecuted brothers in the lost provinces, and for the Ethiopian campaign they were fattened up on promises of milk and honey with a tasty side dish of vindication for a humiliating licking at Adowa.

It was noticed that when the Duce sent his invincible legions to Spain to fight a people for whom they had no racial, traditional or even neighborly grudge they were not able to arouse the proper spirit.

The Spaniards were not tampering with Italy's frontiers. There were no persecuted Italians in Spain. And, out of political delicacy, the Duce was unable to offer them even the sordid profit motive.

Sawyer Asks G.O.P. Independent Backing

RENEW BLASTS AT 'BOSSISM' OF BRICKER'S AIDS

Asks Republicans Help After Foe Bids For Support of 'Purged' Democrats.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Charles Sawyer bid today for the support of Independent Republicans, five days after John W. Bricker, his Republican opponent for governor, asked that he be supported by "purged" Democrats.

"Thousands of Independent Republicans voted for me in the primary and I know that thousands of them will vote for me this fall," Sawyer said in the first of a series of radio addresses broadcast from Cleveland last night.

Bricker declared at a rally in Marion Monday night that the "Democrats have purged the best men from the party, and I want the purges to come into the Republican party."

Renews Broadside. Much of Sawyer's address was devoted to a renewal of his broadside against Ed. D. Schorr, Republican state chairman.

"Never in Ohio's history has there been such a concentration of power in one man as is now lodged in my opponent's boss, Ed Schorr," Sawyer asserted. "x x x (He) will operate the state of Ohio as he has operated the Republican party—for the benefit of a very few."

"Have they (Independent Republicans) ever been consulted about party affairs?" he asked. "Do they or will they benefit in any way from the advantages which will come to the party leadership? These Independent Republicans, as well as Democrats, should repudiate emphatically this effort to saddle again upon the state of Ohio the kind of discredited leadership which most Independent Republicans repudiated years ago."

Bricker said in a speech yesterday that if elected he would "drive from Columbus a half-dozen political enemies who preyed on business men throughout Ohio." He also pledged stringent economy and said "the state tax commission will be rid of political employees and made to operate as an efficient tax collecting body."

Republican state headquarters said today that Bricker had been endorsed by the executive committee of the Ohio Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers.

MOVES TO HALT TAX INSPECTION

State Joins 4 Defendants In Personal Tax Suits to Halt Check of County Books.

The state tax commission today joined the defendants in four personal tax suits in Richland county common pleas court in a move to prevent inspection of county tax books by the plaintiff's counsel in the suits.

Represented by Atty. General Herbert S. Duffy, the tax commission filed demurrers to amended petitions seeking authority to examine tax figures for evidence in actions against owners and executors of four extensive properties in the Mansfield area.

The suits filed by Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield, contend that personal tax returns for the properties were incomplete during the period from 1926 to 1930 and seek to collect back taxes allegedly due for that period.

Motions to strike the amended petitions from court records already have been filed by counsel for four defendants. The amended petitions make the tax commission, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and County Treasurer John E. Kolb party defendants in the suits.

Defendants in the original tax suits were Harry S. Black, J. A. Rigby, the Citizens National Bank and Trust company for the estate of the late Burton Preston, and Donald S. Black and others for the estate of the late Frank B. Black.

TEMPERAMENTAL CERESUS

William C. Worley, 312 East First street has a "temperamental" night blooming cactus, which blooms during the day instead of at night. The unusual plant, which may be seen at the Worley home, also refuses to conform to the habits of the cactus by blooming six times a year instead of once. The plant was open today, with a number of blooms on it.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

EX-PUPILS AND TEACHERS OF NOW EXTINCT SCHOOL ARE REUNITED

When pupils and teachers of what was once the Excelsior Hall school meet this afternoon and evening at North Lake park pavilion for their sixth reunion, they will hear some interesting reminiscences of the old school, and its history, although the school is no longer in existence.

The school lives only in the memories of the men and women who learned their ABC's within its walls, for the building was moved to the Prospect school site a number of years ago and is now a part of that building.

Although Excelsior Hall was built in 1882, its history goes back more than 75 years, according to Mrs. V. E. Reinhart, F. R. D. 7, who has prepared a history of the old school and will read it at the reunion tonight.

Only Charles Tingley, Olivesburg road, one of the oldest residents of the district, can recall the original log school house which stood on a tract of land that belonged to his father. It was called the Carsberg District school.

When the Civil war broke out, the long building was taken over for a hospital for war wounded and convalescents, and after the war it was abandoned. The district was without a school and residents considered the distance to Mansfield, Spring Grove or Yankeetown too far to send the children.

In the spring of 1882 Samuel Frye, Edward Chatlain, Charles Tingley and B. B. VerBeek started a movement to organize and build a new school. Petitions were presented to the Madison township trustees and the sum of $200 was appropriated for the land. It was purchased from Christian Wise, father of the late Phoebe Wise, a Richland county character.

The new school was formally opened in the fall of 1882, with Miss Mary E. Becker as teacher and 30 pupils enrolled who ranged in ages from five to 20 years. The teachers selected by the directors not only had to be of sterling character and a good teacher, but she had to demonstrate that she could govern the big boys as well as the little ones.

The school district was made up of the old Carsberg and parts of districts 1, 2 and 8, and was designated as No. 9. The high-sounding title of "Excelsior Hall" was given to it, because, according to Mrs. Reinhart, "it was felt that these children and grandchildren of pioneers would live up to the name."

Among the early teachers at the school who are still living are A. L. Martin, 32 West Second street; Mrs. Kate Robinson Rothelsberger, Lexington; Miss Carrie Tughes, Pavoia; Mrs. Ella Osburn, Spiker's Grove; and J. O. Hughes, Shelby.

Years later the school was known as Hancock Heights school and several years ago the building was moved to the Prospect site and the pupils were transferred to the Mansfield public schools.

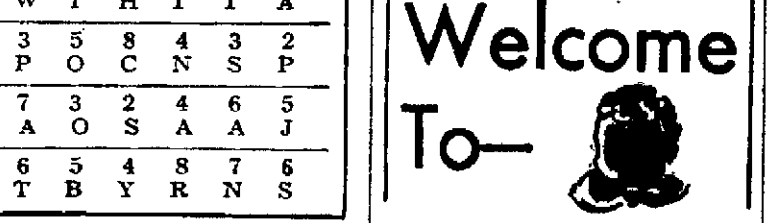

It is the pupils and teachers of old Excelsior Hall who are meeting today. The committee in charge of the reunion includes the president of the association, Albert Pittman, Mrs. Reinhart, Mrs. Ray Zerby, Mrs. C. A. Charles and Mrs. William Houston.

Up and Down THE STREET

A monument in a country cemetery on Myers road, just north of Springmill road, carries a peculiar mistake in its inscription. The legend on the marble marker is "Jeremiah Kirkpatrick, Died June 22, 1896. Aged 74 years, 10 m, 26 days. Catherine, His Wife, Died Sept. 15, 1819, aged 81 years, 4 days." Which places her death more than two years before her husband was born. It is quite probable, since her name follows that of her husband on the marker, that she died after he did, and that the date after her name was her birth date, mistakenly engraved by the man who made the marker.

Requirements for eligibility to the girls' bugle and drum corps at Senior high school are almost as "stiff" as those for an airline hostess, as the girls who are attempting to fill the ranks this year have found. They must have good posture, the ability to keep step to music automatically (not so easy), must be musically inclined, and for those in the bugle corps, their teeth must be in good condition and their lips full enough to hold a bugle mouthpiece. "Many are called but few are chosen," J. Merton Holcombe, director, explains.

When it comes to "troubled sleepers," a Mansfield man claims to be the champion. Nightmares are nothing new to him, but the other night he surpassed himself. He says he engaged in a question contest in his dreams in which he played the dual role of questioner and answerer. He'd ask the question lying on his right side and then flop over to his left to answer it. Once he awakened just after he asked a question. "Can't do that," he told himself drowsily, "gotta answer it before I wake up." So he went back to his half-sleep and answered himself before he awakened again to wonder how he could get back to sleep. But he couldn't sleep again for thinking of the wrong answers he gave. (Ed: It sounds like a "Tall Story" to us.)

MAN, WIFE IN CAR MENACED WITH PISTOL

Forced to Drive Gun Weilder, Child, 3, Into Ohio; Police Capture Suspect.

(By United Press) BOWLING GREEN — A 23-year-old man who told authorities he was Woodrow Wilson Goodrun of Detroit was held in jail here today in connection with the abduction of a Detroit couple.

Samuel Berger, 38, and his wife Carolyn, 30, of Detroit, told Sheriff Arnold Isch that Goodrun forced them at the point of a pistol to drive him and a three-year-old child 75 miles last night.

Goodrun was arrested in Kenton, O., a few hours after leaving the Berger car, five miles north of here. The Berbers telephoned the sheriff from a farm house and a call for their kidnaper's arrest was broadcast by the state highway patrol radio.

Goodrun was returned here from Kenton and held under a technical charge of automobile theft. Authorities said a federal kidnapping charge might be placed against him later.

The little girl, whom officers thought was Goodrun's daughter, was taken to the Wood county home pending investigation.

Gets Into Auto. According to the Berbers, the man accosted them as they were leaving a Detroit restaurant to go to their car. He and the child got into the back seat and forced Berger to drive them out of the city, repeatedly threatening their lives if they attempted to summon help.

They drove him through Monroe and Toledo, stopping at Toledo for gasoline. When Goodrun and the child got out, he took Berger's automobile license plates, coat and wallet.

The Berbers said the child kept saying, "I want to go home to mama." Goodrun quieted her by telling her that he would take her for a bus ride later and would "go so see grandma in Texas."

Later, authorities learned that the child's name is Marlene, that her parents were divorced, and that she had been in her mother's custody.

Sunday Schools Out to Set New Attendance Marks

With Rally Day being observed tomorrow in most Richmond county churches, launching fall activities, Sunday schools will be attempting to set new Rally Day attendance records.

In co-operation with the Richmond County Council of Religious Education, the various Sunday schools for the past three weeks have conducted a pre-Rally Day attendance campaign, according to Ray G. Bush, president.

During the three-week campaign Sunday schools attempted to boost their attendance over their last year mark with 14 out of 6 churches passing their 1937 totals.

Churches showing the largest increases were St. John's Evangelical, First United Brethren, South Main Street Evangelical, and First Lutheran. Others showing gains were First Congregational, Cagarea, St. Luke's Lutheran, Oakland Lutheran, Pleasant Valley, Shelby Baptist, Shelby United Brethren, Ontario Community, Lexington Congregational, and First Brethren. A drop in attendance was reported at Pleasant Grove and Clay Memorial churches.

What if Bunds Decided to Absord Ohio? Canadians Aren't Anxious for War

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IF THE German bunds in America should settle in Ohio and Pennsylvania, for instance, and Hitler should decide that because they were predominantly German in sympathies, he would take over this territory, would England, France and Italy get together and decide that he should have it, in order to preserve world peace?

It sounds silly—but it happened to a little democracy in Europe this week. Just like that. And the country itself had nothing to say about it. It was "sold down the river" because the powerful nations of Europe were afraid to say "no" to an erstwhile paper-hanger and painter who came out of oblivion eight years ago.

The amazing, the unbelievable, has happened. A little man whom the world dislikes exceedingly has jerked the tail of the British lion, thumbed his nose at the fleur-de-lis of France, cracked the whip over Mussolini, ignored Russia—and made them all cry "Hell Hitler!"

But you have not seen the end. Perhaps one of the reasons why Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of Great Britain, forced his country to back down and bend a knee before Hitler the Great was because he realizes that the powerful English colonies are getting restless at being yoked to a mother country that is constantly in hot water.

The Canadians certainly are not anxious to fight. There is a very distinct difference between the people of Ontario and the provinces to the west of Canada, and the Quebecers. The central and western provincials are largely English by tradition and background, and are inherently loyal to the English crown, but even they are beginning to feel that Canada might be better off as an independent democracy.

ON THE other hand the people of Quebec are a conquered people, still passionately loyal to the French language, French traditions, religion and customs. They have not forgotten that a belligerent English army under Wolfe scaled the walls of old Quebec less than 200 years ago and made captive the French settlers in the New World. The French blood that was spilled on the plains of Abraham—plains of destiny—has not been forgotten. It wells up in the olive cheeks of young Quebecers when they say: "We are loyal to England, of

FAIR ENOUGH!

With No Reason to Fight, Duce's Legions Probably Would Have Lost in War

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Will Rogers used to say that this country couldn't go to war just now "because we haven't got a slogan." And for all Mussolini's talk of going to war for Germany, he is in a similar fix. Mussolini hasn't even the shadow of a grievance or a cause to offer the Italian people, who when the cheering dies down, would have to do the suffering and dying in person. There are no Sudeten Italians, and all the Italians who once clamored for Anschluss with Italy were rescued after 1918.

Nobody has been bending the Italian frontiers anywhere, and indeed, the object of the alteration or correction of frontiers should be particularly touching to Italians in view of the fact that their frontiers now inclose territory which, in any readjustment consistent with the principles which the Duce recently flung at Czechoslovakia, would be ceded back to the rightful owners. Both the Duce and Hitler have conspicuously avoided mention of the God-created Germans who have known the true meaning of persecution under Mussolini in the captured Tyrol.

Mussolini always had made it plain that Italy, in war, has renounced her amateur standing. His main complaint against Britain and France has been that they gyped Italy of her fair share of the purse for the last World War, and he was again frankly professional when he went into Ethiopia. In the World War the spirit of the Italian people was nourished on the cause of their persecuted brothers in the lost provinces, and for the Ethiopian campaign they were fattened up on promises of milk and honey with a tasty side dish of vindication for a humiliating licking at Adowa.

It was noticed that when the Duce sent his invincible legions to Spain to fight a people for whom they had no racial, traditional or even neighborly grudge they were not able to arouse the proper spirit. The Spaniards were not tampering with Italy's frontiers. There were no persecuted Italians in Spain. And, out of political delicacy, the Duce was unable to offer them even the sordid profit motive.

Sawyer Asks G.O.P. Independent Backing

RENEW BLASTS AT 'BOSSISM' OF BRICKER'S AID

Asks Republicans Help After Foe Bids For Support of 'Purged' Democrats.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Charles Sawyer bid today for the support of Independent Republicans, five days after John W. Bricker, his Republican opponent for governor, asked that he be supported by "purged" Democrats.

"Thousands of Independent Republicans voted for me in the primary and I know that thousands of them will vote for me this fall," Sawyer said in the first of a series of radio addresses broadcast from Cleveland last night.

Bricker declared at a rally in Marion Monday night that the "Democrats have purged the best men from the party, and I want the purges to come into the Republican party."

Renews Broadside.

Much of Sawyer's address was devoted to a renewal of his broadside against Ed D. Schorr, Republican state chairman. "Never in Ohio's history has there been such a concentration of power in one man as is now lodged in my opponent's boss, Ed Schorr," Sawyer asserted. "X x x (He) will operate the state of Ohio as he has operated the Republican party—for the benefit of a very few."

"Have they (Independent Republicans) ever been consulted about party affairs?" he asked. "Do they or will they benefit in any way from the advantages which will come to the party leadership? These Independent Republicans, as well as Democrats, should repudiate emphatically this effort to saddle again upon the state of Ohio the kind of discredited leadership which most Independent Republicans repudiated years ago."

Bricker said in a speech yesterday that if elected he would "drive from Columbus a half-dozen political middlemen who preyed on business men throughout Ohio." He also pledged stringent economy and said "the state tax commission will be rid of political employees and made to operate as an efficient tax collecting body."

Republican state headquarters said in a prepared statement issued today that Bricker had been endorsed by the executive committee of the Ohio Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers.

MOVES TO HALT TAX INSPECTION

State Joins 4 Defendants In Personal Tax Suits to Halt Check of County Books.

The state tax commission today joined the defendants in four personal tax suits in Richland county common pleas court in a move to prevent inspection of county tax books by the plaintiffs' counsel in the suits.

Represented by Atty. General Herbert S. Duffy, the tax commission filed demurrers to amended petitions seeking authority to examine tax figures for evidence in actions against owners and executors of four extensive properties in the Mansfield area.

The suits filed by Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield, contend that personal tax returns for the properties were incomplete during the period from 1926 to 1930 and seek to collect back taxes allegedly due for that period.

Motions to strike the amended petitions from court records already have been filed by counsel for four defendants. The amended petitions make the tax commission, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and County Treasurer John E. Kolb party defendants in the suits.

Defendants in the original tax suits were Harry S. Black, J. A. Rigby, the Citizens National Bank and Trust company for the estate of the late Burton Preston, and Donald S. Black and others for the estate of the late Frank B. Black.

TEMPERAMENTAL CERESUS

William C. Worley, 312 East First street has a "temperamental" night blooming cactus, which blooms during the day instead of at night. The plant was open today, with a number of blooms on it.

EX-PUPILS AND TEACHERS OF NOW EXTINCT SCHOOL ARE REUNITED

When pupils and teachers of what was once the Excelsior Hall school meet this afternoon and evening at North Lake park pavilion for their sixth reunion, they will hear some interesting reminiscences of the old school, and its history, although the school is no longer in existence.

The school lives only in the memories of the men and women who learned their ABC's within its walls, for the building was moved to the Prospect school site a number of years ago and is now a part of that building.

Although, Excelsior Hall was built in 1882, its history goes back more than 75 years, according to Mrs. V. E. Reinhart, F. R. D. 7, who has prepared a history of the old school and will read it at the reunion tonight.

Only Charles Tingley, Olivesburg road, one of the oldest residents of the district, can recall the original log school house which stood on a tract of land that belonged to his father. It was called the Carsberg District school.

When the Civil war broke out, the long building was taken over for a hospital for war wounded and convalescents, and after the war it was abandoned. The district was without a school and residents considered the distance to Mansfield, Spring Grove or Yanketown too far to send the children.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Up and Down THE STREET

A monument in a country cemetery on Myers road, just north of Springmill road, carries a peculiar mistake in its inscription. The legend on the marble marker is "Jeremiah Kirkpatrick, Died June 22, 1896, Aged 74 years, 10 m, 26 days. Catherine, His Wife, Died Sept. 15, 1819, aged 81 years, 4 days." Which places her death more than two years before her husband was born. It is quite probable, since her name follows that of her husband on the marker, that she died after he did, and that the date after her name was her birth date, mistakenly engraved by the man who made the marker.

Requirements for eligibility to the girls' bugle and drum corps at Senior high school are almost as "stiff" as those for an airline hostess, as the girls who are attempting to fill the ranks this year have found. They must have good posture, the ability to keep step to music automatically (not so easy), must be musically inclined, and for those in the bugle corps, their teeth must be in good condition and their lips full enough to hold a bugle mouthpiece. "Many are called but few are chosen," J. Merton Holcombe, director, explains.

When it comes to "troubled sleepers," a Mansfield man claims to be the champion. Nightmares are nothing new to him, but the other night he surpassed himself. He says he engaged in a question contest in his dreams in which he played the dual role of questioner and answerer. He'd ask the question lying on his right side and then flop over to his left to answer it. Once he awakened just after he asked a question. "Can't do that," he told himself drowsily, "gotta answer it before I wake up." So he went back to his half-sleep and answered himself before he awakened again to wonder how he could get back to sleep. But he couldn't sleep again for thinking of the wrong answers he gave. (Ed: It sounds like a "Tall Story" to us.)

MAN, WIFE IN CAR MENACED WITH PISTOL

Forced to Drive Gun Weilder, Child, 3, Into Ohio; Police Capture Suspect.

(By United Press)
BOWLING GREEN — A 23-year-old man who told authorities he was Woodrow Wilson Goodrun of Detroit was held in jail here today in connection with the abduction of a Detroit couple.

Samuel Berger, 38, and his wife, Carolyn, 30, of Detroit, told Sheriff Arnold Isch that Goodrun forced them at the point of a pistol to drive him and a three-year-old child 75 miles last night.

Goodrun was arrested in Kenton, O., a few hours after leaving the Berger car, five miles north of here. The Bergers telephoned the sheriff from a farm house and a call for their kidnaper's arrest was broadcast by the state highway patrol radio.

Goodrun was returned here from Kenton and held under a technical charge of automobile theft. Authorities said a federal kidnapping charge might be placed against him later.

The little girl, whom officers thought was Goodrun's daughter, was taken to the Wood county home pending investigation.

Gets Into Auto.
According to the Bergers, the man accosted them as they were leaving a Detroit restaurant to go to their car. He and the child got into the back seat and forced Berger to drive them out of the city, repeatedly threatening their lives if they attempted to summon help.

They drove him through Monroe and Toledo, stopping at Toledo for gasoline. When Goodrun and the child got out, he took Berger's automobile license plates, coat and wallet.

The Bergers said the child kept saying, "I want to go home to mama." Goodrun quieted her by telling her that he would take her for a bus ride later and would "go so see grandma in Texas."

Later, authorities learned that the child's name is Marlene, that her parents were divorced, and that she had been in her mother's custody.

17 CHURCHES TO OBSERVE RALLY DAY TOMORROW

Special Programs Arranged By Sunday Schools Opening Fall Activities.

Rally Day, marking the beginning of fall and winter activities, will be observed tomorrow in the Sunday schools of at least 17 Mansfield churches. Some schools have set attendance goals, some will have a unified Sunday school and church service, while others will have special features during their Sunday school hour.

Churches having special programs are St. John's Evangelical, First Lutheran, St. Paul Lutheran, St. Mark's Lutheran, St. Matthew's Lutheran, Park Avenue Baptist, South Main Street Evangelical, First United Brethren, First Methodist, Central Methodist, First Brethren, Evangelical Congregational, Free Methodist, Lincoln Heights Church of the Brethren, United Presbyterian, St. Luke's Lutheran, and the Church of the Foursquare Gospel.

Set Attendance Goals.

Both St. John's and South Main Street Evangelical church have set goals of 700, the Free Methodist 200, First Brethren 100, and St. Matthew's Lutheran, 325.

At St. John's Church, Mayor Claude M. Hunter will be the guest speaker at a unified Sunday school and church service at 9 a. m. Music by the men's chorus, directed by John C. Klinger, and the Sunday school orchestra, directed by Frank Vild, will be presented during the service. A concert by the orchestra at 8:45 a. m. will precede the service. The primary and beginners departments will have their separate programs at 9 a. m.

All divisions of the St. Paul Lutheran Sunday school will meet in the church auditorium at 9:30 a. m. for special exercises. This will mark the last time the auditorium, in its present condition, will be used before it is closed for redecoration.

Church To Be Redecorated.

The congregation recently approved a redecoration and lighting program costing approximately $2,500. The auditorium was last decorated in 1910, and the lighting fixtures are those installed when the church was opened 40 years ago, Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor, said. During October while the auditorium is closed, services and activities will be held in other parts of the building.

The Rally day program will include music by the primary department, and Miss Jane Weutrick, announcement of attendance records for the past year, awarding class banners, and election of teachers and officers for the coming year. Miss Estella Arras, Mrs. Herman L. Gilbert and Mrs. M. R. Perkeyville, head a committee in charge of the program and decorations. During the morning service at 10:30 a. m., the newly elected officers and teachers will be installed. Rev. Gilbert will preach in the subject, "Why Our Growing Church."

Three church groups will meet next week. The council convenes at 7:30 p. m. Monday, the Ladies' Aid meets at 2 p. m. Thursday, and officers and teachers at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Baptist Rally Day.

The Park Avenue Baptist church will observe Rally day during church school at 9:15 a. m., and the morning worship at 10:30. During the service the senior choir, directed by Lawrence S. Frank, will sing "Lo, A Voice to Heaven Sounding," by Bortniansky, and Willis E. Wygant, jr., will sing "Just For Today," by Abbott. Frank will play three organ selections, "Andante Religioso," by Thome, "Inter-Mezzo," by Masagn, and "Fugue In D Major," by Bach. Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, speaks on the subject, "Long Cords and Strong Stakes." Church meetings scheduled for the week are the Senior World Wide guild at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Roland McAllister, 55 Hill avenue, and the finance committee at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the church.

A Rally day program will be given during the Sunday school at 9:15 a. m. at the First Methodist during the worship service at 10:30 a. m. The choir, directed by James Webber, will sing "Holy Art Thou" by Handel; a trio comprised of Miss Genevieve Hrolov, organ, Mrs. Elsie Ireland, organ, and George Ireland, violin, will present a number, and James Webber and Ralph Wadsworth will sing as a duet, "And I Saw A New Heaven." Install School Officers. Installation of Sunday school officers by Rev. Paul Hollingshead will feature a combined Sunday school and church service at 9:15 a. m. Sunday at the Central Methodist church. Children from the beginners, primary and junior departments will join their parents in the main auditorium for the main auditorium for the worship service.

Installation of officers will also feature the Rally Day program at St. Mark's Lutheran church during the Sunday school hour at 9:30 a. m. Those to be installed are H. H. Sticker, superintendent; Robert Stevenson, assistant superintendent; Miss Martha Lucas, secretary; Miss Sally Russell and Miss Mary Nanich, assistant secretaries; Miss Naomi Grandon, pianist; Earl Burns and Richard Hoffman, librarians; C. F. Fighter, treasurer; George Hahn, Mrs. Marshall Long, and Mrs. Ula Karl directors, and Clyde Davis, Charles Denny, Albert Pifer and George Russell, members of the church council. The officers were elected at the annual congregational meeting Thursday.

A program of songs and recitations, featuring the young girls chorus, directed by Ralph Hopper, will feature the Rally Day program at 9:30 a. m. at the First United Brethren church. The church will begin holding evening services Sunday, Rev. James L. Boyer, pastor, announced. The service will begin at 7:30, and Rev. Boyer will speak on the subject, "Paul the Man."

In addition to holding a Rally Day service during the Sunday school hour at 9:30 a. m., St. Matthew's Lutheran church will begin evening services at 7:30, Rev. C. F. Sheriff, pastor, announced. For the first evening service, Rev. Sheriff will give an illustrated sermon on the subject, "Life of Christ."

At the Lincoln Heights Church of the Brethren, Miss Goldie Swartz, missionary from India, will speak during the church service at 11 a. m. Richmond County Prosecuting Attorney Glenn W. Marriott will give the Rally Day address during the Sunday school hour at 9:30 a. m. at St. Luke's Lutheran church. The church services begin at 10:45 a. m. Rev. Herbert S. Barnes, pastor, will speak on the subject, "Pastor's Prayer."

Sunday Schools Out to Set New Attendance Marks

With Rally Day being observed tomorrow in most Richmond county churches, launching fall activities, Sunday schools will be attempting to set new Rally Day attendance records.

In co-operation with the Richmond County Council of Religious Education, the various Sunday schools for the past three weeks have conducted a pre-Rally Day attendance campaign, according to Ray G. Bush, president.

During the three-week campaign Sunday schools attempted to boost their attendance over their last year mark with 14 out of 6 churches passing their 1937 totals.

Churches showing the largest increases were St. John's Evangelical, First United Brethren, South Main Street Evangelical, and First Lutheran. Others showing gains were First Congregational, Casarea, St. Luke's Lutheran, Oakland Lutheran, Pleasant Valley, Shelby Baptist, United Brethren, Ontario Community, Lexington Congregational, and First Brethren. A drop in attendance was reported at Pleasant Grove and Clay Memorial churches.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — It is fair to report at this point that this business of sorting liberals from conservatives is, in the minds of party sergeants who must get out the vote, a slow business which may never be completed.

We asked certain keen-edged vote-wranglers in both major party organizations what significance could be attached to the defeat in New York of Representative John J. O'Connor. He is an important house committee chairman who didn't suit the administration. O'Connor was left by the primary in the anomalous position of losing the nomination of his own party while winning the Republican nomination.

It was the administration's first success in rooting out of the party a man it considered a "conservative" so as to pave the way for electing a liberal. That is small progress at best; we wanted a smart opinion on whether a faster pace might be expected.

Three 'Liberal' Opinions.

THE composite opinion from sources important in both party organizations is:

1.—The pace will be slow. The prospects of anti-New Deal Democrats being crowded out of the Democratic party by 1940 or even by 1944, are not great.

2.—The outlook for a great mass migration of liberals into one party and conservatives into another at any near future date is equally barren.

3.—Any effort to launch a "pure liberal" third party, even under leadership of President Roosevelt, would run grave risk of cracking up on the rocks of state party organizations and state election laws.

Such laws were planted long ago by the major parties to make it tough for third parties to get a start. In this connection it is recalled that the First Roosevelt left out both in the convention and in the election when he attempted such a move. In several states he couldn't even get his name on the ballot.

Keep in mind that these are not the views of the intense liberals or intense conservatives who might like to see such a clear cut party division even at the expense of temporary defeat. These opinions come from men whose principal business is seeing to it that their party organizations win elections.

Voters Haven't Chosen.

THE trouble is (and most of our sources agreed on this) you can't divide the electorate up into liberal and conservative groups on the basis of national issues. In times past the electorate, responding to a business depression, has thrown out the incumbent, ignoring liberal or conservative principles. Tremendous importance attaches also to local issues and local figures.

One informant related the experience of representatives of one of the prominent "straw vote" organizations engaged in frequent sampling of public opinion. The agency was making a house to house canvass to determine the popularity of "liberal" policies as against "conservative" policies. Masses of those visited could not tell the difference. Before their opinion could be canvassed it was necessary for the agents to explain as best they could just what was meant by a liberal. Frequently they encountered people who thought that a "liberal" administration was the one which spent the most money.

One observer commented that the Republicans would grow as liberal as they could without alienating business, while the Democrats would grow as liberal as they could without alienating the South.

That, he said, is what they have done in years past and will do for years to come.

NICE LITTLE FELLOW

Europe Shows Us What to Avoid

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — We western hemispherical folk are indebted to Europe's troubles for at least one thing: They have been knitting the Americas more closely together.

The peoples of our 21 New World republics manifestly are becoming, unitedly, pretty thoroughly disgusted with the overseas nations' everlasting quarrelling. Our international relationships over here are reasonably good and Europe's awful example is making them better. True, Cuba was pretty badly torn in two under President Machado, but that difficulty was strictly local and has been settled.

Paraguay and Bolivia had a mean little war, which could have been ended sooner if neighbors had realized how vicious it was and tendered their offices more promptly. Nevertheless, that also now has been settled.

There's a trifling boundary dispute up the Amazon, but it's in process of peaceful adjustment. Brazil and Chile have had petty internal disturbances, yet so trifling that the police quickly squelched them. Even Uncle Sam's late argument with Mexico hasn't been bitter.

WE GET ALONG.

In short, we New Worldlings get along reasonably well together, and, scandalized by the European and Asiatic spectacles, we're getting friendlier and friendlier. Canada likewise seems to be drifting into our "entente," where it ought always to have been.

Naturally our Pan-American motto should be "Solidarity." Nice terms with the rest of the world, too, but cohesion amongst all kinds of Americans in particular.

That's what we seem to be tending toward.

It wasn't the same way when the last big war broke out.

We (the U. S. A.) had just been invading Mexico, and all the southern republics sympathized with her. We had marines in Nicaragua and Haiti. We were interfering in Cuba. From the Rio Grande to Cape Horn we were exceedingly unpopular. I know because I lived there.

The change has been wonderful since Franklin D. Roosevelt came into office.

I never did think that Woodrow Wilson knew much, practically, concerning foreign affairs. I'm positive that he didn't know anything of Latin America. Neither did Presidents Harding or Coolidge. President Hoover had the right idea, but he lacked what the Latins call a "simpatico" personality.

His policies were all right. What he said was all right—but not the tone of voice in which he said it.

THEY LIKE PALAVER.

President Roosevelt's policies, generally speaking, are as right as was President Hoover's.

But what "F. D." says is said in a fashion to appeal to the Latin American ear. The Latin likes palaver. Up here the introduction, "My friends," is discounted. Down there it "takes" marvelously.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull scores similarly. It isn't so much what he says; it's how he says it.

Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles undoubtedly has a lot to do with the improvement in Pan-American relations. Welles was First Secretary of the United States Embassy when I dwelt in Buenos Aires. He understands the Latin American temperament to a "T." He's a crafty diplomat—in Latin America, anyway.

About the most capable Pan-American diplomat I ever met was Colonel Orestes Ferrara, Cuban ambassador in Washington in the days of President Machado.

He represented a horrible regime, finally he was connected with it as its Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the last I knew about him, he was a Cuban refugee in New York. All the same he was an enlightened Pan-American. By birth he was an Italian—and an anarchist.

He fought for a REAL Pan-American Union.

Listen, World!

"Sincerely—Josie Terzich."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'VE TOLD YOU—often, I think—of this small mountain town where I live when I can run away from the big, bustling cities, and their hurry and heartache and hullabaloo.

And I've shown you the little shops loafing like old prospectors along the side of the straggling main street . . . and the narrow alleys twisting in and out between the baked adobe walls . . . and the Spaniards' hand-welded iron doors still hanging askew by the barred windows . . . and back of the whitewashed picket fences, the small cottages, with their ginger-trim, standing eye-deep in their tangles of lemon verbena and hollyhock, clove pink, jasmine and Persian roses.

And, at the end of it all, the little red church, with its shaggy, blue-black cypresses . . . and the tunnelled hills with their rotting hoists behind it . . . and the great copper-boled pines lifting straight through the thunder-dust mist of their needles . . . heavy, their ridged bronze shafts up and up through the heavy, gold-tide of the noon . . . up through the thick, scented silver of the night.

And always, by day or night, the friendly flow of folk filtering through it all . . . drifting like a slow rill of life up and down the rickety stairs and moss-grown flagstones . . . gathering in a lazy pool to stare and chaw and swap tales.

So now, having told you all this, I want to tell you of Josie Terzich, for, in a way, she is the heart of it all. Josie Terzich is our coroner. There are some who think that being coroner is a strange work for a woman. And it may be for some women. But seeing our Josie—with the great, straight height of her and the quiet, comforting smile . . . and the strong, yet gentling hands—you'd never, I'm sure, be feeling any strangeness in your hard hour . . . nor any struggle at leaving your broken heart in her arms. For she has that thing which mothering women have . . . that way of turning herself into a home for whatever need there may be.

And so, when there came in the mail a card from Josie, asking us all to elect her again, it startled me. For I had not thought of her as belonging to the world of politics . . . any more than one could easily see one's own mother ballyhooping from her quiet kitchen or the lavender-scented guest room where the sun lies spread, like a square of dim gold, across the shining floor.

But I need not have worried. For there was no taint of politics on Josie's card. Only the honest, friendly face of her . . . looking at you straight and strong, and beneath it just this—

"Sincerely—Josie Terzich."

No boasts. No pleadings. No promises. Only that, "Sincerely—Josie Terzich" . . . and her face looking at you, tried and true. And for a long time I sat studying that face . . . thinking.

There were hundreds of letters beside it to be answered. There was a telephone shrieking somewhere . . . and an angry chore boy, scuffling to be heard . . . and the little tad's new trousers to be fitted . . . and the pie I'd promised to make . . . and the speech I'd promised to write.

But there I sat—with them all pushed aside—reading those three words over — "Sincerely—Josie Terzich."

And the long years dropped away . . . and the hurry and worry that had filled them so full . . . and the dreams, foolish or wise.

I thought to myself that, of all the things I would like to do . . . and of all the answers I would like to make when my turn by the Big Throne comes . . . of all the records I would like to show for the chances I've been given . . . I would rather be able to write, across the end of the scroll, just those three words Josie had written. No boasts . . . no promises . . . no pleading. Only this, with the hope that He'd understand—Just this.

"Sincerely—Elsie Robinson."

So This Is War

So this is war—Mighty deed of hate: Belching death, warm blood and fire; Flaming red with cruel desire—Blind to its own fate.

So this is war—Unleashed beast of hell; Lik of Satan's sullen creed; Offspring of the harlot—greed; Sounding its own knell.

So this is war—Arch enemy of love: Grinding in its vast machines Human flesh—our hopes and dreams—Cursing God above.

So this is war—Fruit of lust and sin; Drunken with the brew of power, Red-soaked—lovely field and flower; Scaring, blinding din.

If this be war—Strange flesh whose cup is gall; Oh, may our loved ones know that God Will hide them in a shining cloud; The countless thousands fall.

As Others See It

Today's Thought. Strive not to be too tolerant. If you are tolerant of every wrong you soon will be doing wrong yourself.—Kansas City Times.

There's a Difference. That taxes are made on the assumption that you can afford it, is all right; but not that you have no business to be able to afford it.—Fremont Messenger.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

THE WAR THREAT that hung over Europe and held America tense during the early part of the week, began clearing Wednesday with announcement of agreement on a four-power conference in Munich on Thursday.

This announcement followed President Roosevelt's dispatch of messages to leaders in the controversy, making an earnest plea for continuance of peace negotiations rather than resort to war.

In Munich on Thursday met Chamberlain, Mussolini, Daladier and Hitler to iron out differences and decide on methods for the restoration to Germany of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

After a day and evening of conference, word came that agreement had been reached and that Czech evacuation of Sudetenland territory would start today and be completed in ten days.

Also today, small detachments of German soldiers were to march into the conceded area as "token occupation," with gradual extension but without show of force.

Czechoslovakia again bowed to the inevitable and agreed to conform to the terms of the pact signed at Munich, with the four powers in agreement to guarantee new borders and provide an international commission to deal with plebiscite to come later.

The Old Deal. But what had happened to last week's Franco-British deal to buy Hitler off quietly with a slice of Czechoslovakia? Only this: Hitler had raised his price, and the other three had balked at paying it.

The original deal—arranged by Britain, agreed to by France and reluctantly accepted by Czechoslovakia—offered Germany the Czech Sudeten regions in return for guarantees of the boundaries of what would be left of Czechoslovakia.

But Hitler, in his second conference with Chamberlain, at Godesberg, Germany, last weekend: (1) Demanded more land than the Czechs had planned to give him; (2) sponsored, indirectly, Hungarian and Polish demands for slices of Czechoslovakia; (3) got tough about it by putting a time-limit on the Sudetenland transfer.

The Invitations. Chamberlain, in a radio broadcast Tuesday evening, repeated his feeling of horror "that a quarrel which is already settled in principle should be the subject of war." He found Hitler's attitude "unreasonable," and added: "If I were convinced that any nation had made up its mind to dominate the world by fear of force, I should feel that it must be resisted."

Then, before parliament next day, he told the whole, long story of the Czech-German quarrel—how it had started with the Sudeten Germans' demand for more self-government within the Czech state, how it had grown into an international issue when Hitler championed the Sudeten's ambitions, how England had attempted unsuccessfully to mediate; how he himself had flown twice to Germany in attempts to keep Hitler from resorting to war.

As he spoke, even bigger news was brewing in Rome. From both Chamberlain and President Roosevelt, Mussolini received pleas that he ask Hitler not to march. The Duce got the Fuehrer on the phone. From Berlin messages crackled to Paris and London. Chamberlain interrupted his speech to receive a penciled note, then announced:

"I have something further to say to the house yet. I have been informed by Hitler that he invites me to meet him in Munich tomorrow morning. He has also invited Mussolini and Daladier. . . . I need not say what my answer will be!"

More Hopeful Future. Also growing out of Thursday's conference was a hope that representatives of European nations might later be again drawn together for friendly discussion of other disturbing problems which have been a constant menace to peaceful relations.

It was noted that Mussolini was the only one of the conferees who could speak and understand all four languages represented in the conference.

At Home. Last summer President Roosevelt sent a commission to study labor conditions in Europe. In England, it reported recently, widespread collective bargaining and mutual respect between employer and worker have made labor strife rare. Last week-end the commission agreed that the same thing was true in Sweden.

Other items from its report on Sweden: (1) Most unions are of the industrial type; (2) employers are strongly organized; (3) no union contract specifies a closed shop; (4) union contracts are enforceable at law; (5) inter-union disputes are uncommon; (6) there are no laws about picketing.

Americanism. John C. Metcalfe, investigator for the congressional committee on un-American activities, charged this week that: (1) The German-American Bund has laid the groundwork for a "sabotage machine and spy ring" in America. (2) Nazis in the U. S. consider themselves the same type of minority as the Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia. (3) "High American industrialists" are behind the bund movement.

Court Comes Back. Monday the supreme court will reconvene. Awaiting the justices are about 400 cases, including suits involving TVA, NLRB, Tom Mooney and the proposed child-labor amendment. Expected to come up, too, at this time, are wage-hour-law, farm-bill and sit-down-strike cases.

Private utilities are challenging TVA's constitutionality. And in a brief filed this week they charged that the TVA program constitutes "abduction by the state and usur-

QUOTES

Sen. Carter Glass: "A liberal is a man who is willing to spend somebody else's money. A conservative is a man with good sense."

Dr. Paul Popenoe, sociologist: "The machine age makes no place for children in its calculations."

Mrs. Roosevelt, on why she does not read her speeches: "I found that if I did not have to think about what I was saying, I became bored with my own conversation."

Storm Statistics. In seven states, the toll of known dead from last week's floods and hurricanes climbed above 500. Property damage in the north-east's worst storm in more than a century was estimated at $500,000,000. Telephone companies said destruction of 250,000 miles of wire had put 300,000 phones out of commission.

With transportation facilities disrupted, a naval battleship carried mail from New York to Boston. An army of more than 100,000 WPA workers, CCC boys, soldiers and Red Cross relief crews helped mop up the mess. On Cape Cod, national guardsmen were ordered to "shoot to kill" roving bands of looters. And the Red Cross appealed to the nation for a $500,000 relief fund.

Another terrific wind, on Thursday this week, spread death and destruction through Charleston, S. C.

Politics

Hats In Ring. Slates for this fall's elections were being completed this week in several states. New York's nominating conventions were the main event.

The Empire state's Republicans met Wednesday, Thomas E. Dewey, Manhattan's racket buster, whose political career was launched only three years ago when Democratic Gov. Herbert H. Lehman made him a special prosecutor, was nominated for governor.

New York Democrats, in convention yesterday, talked Governor Lehman out of his senatorial aspirations and he agreed to accept nomination for fourth term as governor.

Reliefers Resolve. The Workers Alliance of America is an organization of people on relief. In Cleveland last week-end, its fourth annual convention (1) resolved that "bread and progress are of greater concern to us and to the American people as a whole than so-called traditions," (2) pledged support to President Roosevelt "now and again in 1940 if he finds it necessary to come before the American people for election to a third term."

People

Among the Missing. James P. Lardner, Ring's son, went to Spain as a newspaper reporter. Last spring he enlisted in the government's international brigade and joined the fighting. In July he was wounded, but returned three weeks ago to the Ebro river front. And now he's been captured by the insurgents.

Dionne Dispute. Trial of a $1,000,000 suit brought by a promoter whose plans to publicize the Dionne quintuplets fell through began this week in Chicago. The first witness said the plaintiff, Ivan I. Spear, had rushed to Canada, where the five babies were born, and had made a contract with "Papa" Dionne, Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, principal defendant, contended the deal was unconscionable and against public policy. The case was dismissed.

Sandman's Prisoners. Sleeping sickness now has kept a little Erie, Pa., girl in a coma for three years, and an even younger Chicago child in a similar state for six months. Erie's "sleeping beauty," Maxine Yarrington, was five years old last week-end; Chicago's pretty Mary Ellen Reardon will be three years old Oct. 17.

Drive carefully tomorrow—you may not realize it, but you would be missed.

Thank you, October, for coming in so nicely. Thus far you might even be mistaken for your milder sister, September.

What is needed now is an outbreak of world peace—with no virus of hate or misunderstanding to prevent spread of the epidemic.

Peace, But For How Long?

NOW that the threat of an immediate war in central Europe has been dispelled by last-minute negotiations which will result in peaceful annexation of Sudetenland to Germany, there will be at least a brief easing of the tension that has been felt throughout the world since the Austrian coup six months ago.

What is in store for the future of Europe, none can say. It is too much to hope that any formula for permanent peace has yet been found, but there is at least the possibility that the precedent set by calm discussions in Munich may later be developed into similar meetings of representatives of European powers, with a view to settling differences without resorting to war.

Whatever is thought of Adolf Hitler, it is now disclosed that, including this week's concessions, he has created a Germany greater than the nation ruled by Kaiser Wilhelm before Germany was crushed by the World war. The 1914 population of 67 million has grown to more than 78 million, and the 1914 area of 209,000 square miles has become 220,000 square miles.

The Versailles peace treaty, outgrowth of passions aroused by the World war and based on the theory of punishment for Germany, left that nation so badly hampered and deprived of sources of production that the explosive forces of later years might well have been anticipated.

The rise of Hitlerism from the wreckage of an impotent republic, attempted by a crushed people, was also a natural sequence.

Whether ways toward peace will now be found, or the future bring mere repetition of national policies that breed war, can only be guessed.

Judging the future by the past, European nations are still far from the goal of friendly understanding that would augur permanent maintenance of peaceful relations.

The Joy of a Mother and Father.

NO MORE genuine happiness may be expected in this life than that which comes to parents who are privileged to live long enough to know that a child of theirs has won distinction for worthy accomplishments.

Such an experience was enjoyed this week by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Goebel, of the little northwestern Ohio town of Edgerton, who came to Mansfield Thursday to be present at a reception in which this city joined with St. Peter's parish in paying a tribute of friendship and high regard to one who has long been first in their thoughts as their son Rupert.

They had been in Toledo, the day before, to witness the solemn ceremony of investiture of their son in the robes of domestic prelate, a distinction bestowed upon him by Pope Pius XI, in recognition of his studies and knowledge, and his accomplishments in things religious.

But to these aging parents, this fine man whom many had respectfully called "Father" and who is now addressed as "Monsignor," is still the boy that they cared for as a babe, watched and guided through the years of childhood, and, by precept and example, sought to direct along right paths toward honorable manhood.

Now, as they look back through the years and realize what has been done, is being done, and is yet to be done by this boy of theirs, there must be realization that the troubles, worries and hardships encountered along the way count as naught against the fact that they have given to the world a son of whom they may well feel proud—a son whose good work will extend immeasurably as an influence for betterment of many people in this generation and, through them, into future generations.

It cannot be escaped that parents find greater joy in worthy accomplishments of their children than in anything that they themselves may do.

Soil Damage From Storm.

NEW ENGLAND farms, as well as cities, are said to have "taken a terrific beating" in the great storm which recently devastated that region. The damage to the soil may surpass the damage to buildings. Millions of tons of topsoil have been swept into the valleys and streams and on toward the sea. There are thousands of gullies now that were not there before, and it will be harder to stop erosion hereafter.

Even so, the region has probably fared better than many another part of the country might fare in a deluge of equal severity. For New England has accomplished, in the last generation or two, a surprising amount of reforestation, the tendency of which is to preserve the soil and restore washed-out slopes and bottom lands.

Much of this has been involuntary, a result of the natural reversion to grass, brush and woods, after abandonment of cultivation.

Tree Walkers.

ON A FINE autumn Sunday afternoon recently 160 persons went on tree walks sponsored by a midwestern natural history museum. Leaders from the museum staff pointed out trees to them, told them how to know individual species, which were native and which acclimated foreigners. A lot of people learned for the first time the difference between Virginia creeper, dewberry and poison ivy.

What good did it do them? They began the practice of observation, of noting details. Hereafter they'll probably find themselves more aware of trees along streets and in parks. No doubt a beautiful tree may be enjoyed by one who does not know its name or habits. Yet enjoyment is increased and mind stimulated by the addition of such knowledge.

Harter Tobias sold market stall to Ralph Davis and prepared to move to California.

County property owners were given permission to pay their real estate taxes on the installment plan.

The county paid out $1,500 for sheep killed by dogs during the month.

Dale D. Arnold was re-elected treasurer of the Ohio Rifle and Pistol association at Columbus.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joy Herbert, at General hospital.

Eugene Weinberger returned from concerts in Europe, entertained the Music Study club at its first meeting of the season.

No boasts. No pleadings. No promises. Only that, "Sincerely—Josie Terzich" . . . and her face looking at you, tried and true. And for a long time I sat studying that face . . . thinking.

A BID AS A SAFEGUARD
IT IS UNLIKELY that either defender will attack the suit you bid, if you wind up in no trump game contract, even if one of them has it badly bunched against you. Their tendency in this direction constitutes one safeguard against the danger of weakness in that suit. Base your playing plans, then, largely on their firing other suits at you.

When the spade 5 was led, South could see eight tricks in sight and the question in his mind was whether to attempt to find the ninth in the heart or diamond suit. He correctly selected the diamond suit and as a result made his contract. The first lead was won with the spade Q and the diamond 10 led to East's J. The spade return was allowed to hold and the next lead was taken with the A. South, then led another diamond and ducked again. East won and then switched to a heart. Declarer went in with the A and played to the diamond A. As the suit broke the diamond 9 furnished the needed ninth trick.

Declarer would not have been as successful had he attempted to set up the heart suit for, even if he ducked two rounds of that suit, the opponents would no doubt have gone after the diamonds.

Dessert-Bridge Given In Honor Of Miss Henness

The Towne House was the scene of a dessert-bridge and personal shower-party honoring Miss Rosalee Henness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Henness, 142 Stewart avenue, who will become the bride of Charles McMullen, son of Mrs. Fern McMullen, East Second street, Oct. 15.

There were four tables in play at the affair which was held Thursday. Green and white was the color scheme used.

Bridge prizes were won by Miss Berdella McMullen, sister of the bridegroom-to-be, and Miss Henness. The hostesses, Mrs. Frank Screidt, Miss Phyllis Underwood, and Miss Alice Fay, presented the honoree with a blue taffeta housecoat and matching slippers.

This affair was another in the series of parties for Miss Henness who will be married at the Central Methodist Episcopal church at 4:30 p. m., Oct. 15.

A program was presented before members of Class 27 of the First Christian church yesterday afternoon following the covered-dish luncheon. Miss Anna McVicar led the devotions and members gave their favorite Bible verses preceding the prayer led by Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger. Mrs. Ralph Kornely entertained with a piano selection, and reports of the missionary convention held here last week were given by Mrs. Ella Tappan and Mrs. Mary Thornberry. Mrs. Charles Frotz, 48 Dudley avenue, will entertain Oct. 21.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Oct. 2.
SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is for a particularly lively and eventful day, with much stirring of a sudden and surprising nature. This may cause an upheaval, with change of plans and surroundings, and possible contacts with those in high estate. A new business or a new deal of major scope seems to underlie this, calling for splendid attacks and high-pressure activities. Finances, speculation, agreements with large corporations, diplomatic or political bodies should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a very important year, with major events climaxing much manipulation of powerful influences, political, diplomatic, financial or fraternal.

A child born on this day may have large ideas and ambitions, with much initiative, enterprise and aggressiveness attracting the support of capital and attaining fine position, probably in a far distant place.

For Monday, Oct. 3.
MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a very active and lively state of affairs, judging by the lunar aspects, but these will not be devoid of anxiety and friction. There may be enmity, jealousy and open quarrels, although the undercurrents of treachery and pernicious plots and schemes of a peculiar nature may be most menacing. In connection with writings, publishing and promotional enterprises, there should be fine opportunities.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a particularly lively and enterprising year, although this important movement may be beset by envy, jealousy, trickery and quarrels, open and above board as well as secret and sinister.

A child born on this day should be particularly brilliant and versatile, with many intellectual gifts furthering a possibly brilliant public career, which, however, may be beset by much envy, hostility and treachery.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I waited only to give her a hasty goodbye kiss before hurrying away. But I barely had reached the door of the room in which Hank and Bill were awaiting my summons before she passed me.

"I'm getting hold of Harry," she said, "to make sure that things are 'safe for democracy.'" The Dicky-bird never took a precaution in his life if somebody didn't force it on him. I may be doubling for the fifth wheel at that. Harry may already have attended to things. Bring the boys down anyway."

I nodded an assent as I knocked at the door of the boys' room. At Bill's low "come in," I entered, to find him sitting in an arm chair with a traveling bag, already strapped, beside his chair, while Hank, stretched upon the bed, was still sleeping soundly.

"He hasn't stirred since he dropped down there," Bill said. "He'll have to now." I told him smiling, "for we're going to start in a very few minutes."

The captain of the state troopers was standing just outside the door, and his voice was low but emphatic, distinctly audible to me as I came inside the door.

Two Who Chose Sept. 24 For Wedding Dates

Announce August Marriage at Recent Party at Bride's Home

FRIENDS of the former Miss Virginia Pittinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Pittinger, 60 Superior street, were surprised at a recent party to learn of the young woman's marriage on Aug. 8 to Charles Spetka. The engagement of the couple was announced during the summer at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Old at their home at 206 1/2 West Park drive.

At the time of the engagement no date was set for the wedding, and on Aug. 8 Mr. and Mrs. Spetka attended by Mr. and Mrs. Old went to Wheeling, W. Va., where the couple was married at the St. James Methodist church by Rev. Newman.

The marriage was revealed at a party given by the bride's parents Thursday evening at their home. Games were played during the evening, and Mrs. Tom Posa and Mrs. Roy Spetka were the winners. They presented their prizes to the honoree.

Luncheon was served at a table decorated in pink and white and with garden flowers. The marriage announcement was made when guests worked a crossword puzzle made in a heart shape, and containing a picture of the couple.

Out-of-town guests present at the party were Mrs. Richard Heinland, Galion, and Mrs. Hayden Hess, Shelby.

Mr. Spetka, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Spetka, 351 Bowman street, is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, and attended Ashland college. He and Mrs. Spetka will be at home after Oct. 15 on East Main street in Coshocton, where Mr. Spetka is assistant manager of one of the Warner theaters.

Mrs. Spetka, who is also a graduate of the Senior high school, was employed at the Lautsbaugh pharmacy, before her marriage.

TROOPS MARCH AT 'ZERO HOUR'

Czechs Bitter But Surrender Sudeten Territories to Advancing Germany Army.

No. 1 of the occupation was to start at 2 p. m.

The general staff planned to occupy only a part of area No. 1 today—perhaps as little as one-third. There was no hurry now.

The Czechs, bitter as must have been their resentment, were graceful in defeat.

An informal agreement was reached between the German and Czech commands that a no-man's land of 1,500 meters (about one mile) should be established between the advance line of the German troops and the retreating Czechs.

The German general staff had organized the march to the frontier, in readiness for the zero hour signal, with most careful attention to detail.

Direct Advance.

Throughout the night, from headquarters at Linz, Regensburg, Passau and other cities in the zone of operations, general staff officers had directed the advance.

By virtue of the British-French-German-Italian agreement signed at Munich at 12:35 a. m. yesterday, German troops at signal were ready to take over the first of four zones of the German area of Czechoslovakia.

In the cities and in the villages along the roads, German men and women stood bareheaded in the rain during the night, watching the troops and essential transport moving, endlessly, up to the frontier.

France Orders Army Demobilized.

PARIS.—(P)—Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staff of the national defense forces, today ordered the demobilization of more than 1,000,000 reserves called to the colors at various stages during the Czechoslovak crisis.

The first reservists to be demobilized following the four-power Munich accord are expected to return to their homes over the weekend.

At the same time measures have been taken to free vehicles and animals requisitioned for national defense purposes.

The partial demobilization marked France's jubilant return to normal, peace-time life on a day it had feared it would be at war.

REVEAL ENGAGEMENT

SHELBY.—Announcement today had been made of engagement of Miss Sophie Kanapoulos of Akron to Gus George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zeke George of this city. An announcement party was held this week at the George home on West Main street.

Son Jimmy Leaves Hospital

James Roosevelt, the president's son and personal secretary, is shown as he left St. Mary's hospital in Rochester, Minn., accompanied by his wife Betsy. Convalescing after an operation at the Mayo Clinic for a gastric ulcer, the slightly paled but cheerful James, eldest son of the president, planned to rest at the home of a Rochester friend for several days before leaving for California.

started, but the crowds seemingly were impressed by General Sirovy's assurance that Czechoslovakia would live despite its dismemberment.

Some found encouragement in his observation that the new state would be more cohesive and united and possibly happier because it would be relieved of the Sudeten minority problem (which had disturbed the republic since the depression of 1933, before which the Czechs thought the Sudeten Germans were satisfied with conditions).

Strong guards of steel-helmeted police marched through Prague streets, but they were not needed.

German language broadcasts directed to the Sudeten population repeated pleas to officials to keep order. In pauses between radio announcements, doleful chimes sounded from loudspeakers on the streets, emphasizing the nation's sorrow.

The government's acceptance of the Munich accord followed an all-day cabinet session. Many who did not have access to foreign radios did not know about the accord until the government's announcement late in the afternoon.

CHAPTER 8

Judy did not speak to Ronald Birrell. When she glanced up, having decided to do so, he was gone. Vanished completely as though, one moment before, his long strides had not been carrying him down the street.

It was just as well, Judy decided. It was better that she keep her solitary banner waving bravely. She did not want sympathy or pity.

"Not that he would give me much of either," she reflected ruefully. "He thinks I should fly the Star Spangled Banner because I'm on my own. And I—I don't much care what he thinks."

It was that same evening that Craig and his bride came back to New York. Judy saw the girl's picture in the society section of one of the most prominent newspapers the next morning. It was not a sensational story this time—merely a quiet announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Craig Denby had returned from their honeymoon and would be at home at a strange address. So Craig was vacating his apartment?

Judy walked down to an automaton for dinner, thinking about that. She had had tea with him before the great fireplace in the old rooms, while the logs snapped, and the servant who had been with him since childhood moved noiselessly here and there. She had been part of gay groups who had come back to the living room to talk, after the theater, and eat the delectable cheese or chicken sandwiches, prepared by an elderly, comfortable cook, who did not mind working late because she had so little to do at any time.

That was ended, completely. "Try remembering not to think back, Judy Rogers," she reminded herself, slipping a nickel into a slot, turning a crank, and watching a thick white cup fill with steaming hot chocolate at the automat.

In order to divert her thoughts from Craig, she tried to think of Ronald Birrell. "He would think I'm eating where I should," the musing went on. "I don't care—the chocolate's good."

But she dreamed all night long that she was making the old, gay rounds—Twenty-one, the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf, the St. Regis, Pierre's. She thought she was laughing too lightly, too gaily.

And she awakened to find the dull gray morning light coming into the dull gray hotel room. It was better when the lights were on. Three round lamps, a table, four shelves of books, prints and cushions of her own had been salvaged and brought along. There was a bright rug, too, and she had ornaments and bowls and candleholders gathered from here and there. It was early, so she took a quick shower, slipped into a warm bathrobe, and put a few last touches on a sketch on the desk. More and more, the last few days, as she watched the designer at the dress manufacturer's, she had felt an urge to create, too. She held up the completed costume. She liked it. Some day soon, she might have an opportunity to show it to her employer. If he liked it, it would mean a raise. Or maybe a chance to try a design now and then.

At last she put on the gay red frock which had been one of her favorites, and started to work. There were buyers. She paraded before them in a blue frock, a black one, a brown, a blue, a white evening dress that followed simple sports lines, another blue . . . And all the while Craig Denby was wondering about Judy as he went through the habitual routine of landing, customs, and riding up town to the new expensive hotel suite which he had taken for a month or so. Today he would see about dismantling his old apartment. He must find a permanent place to live. Marriage was more inconvenient than he had thought at first. But Mary . . .

He smiled at the girl whom he had married. He had not been sorry for a minute. Judy was right. You recognized love when it came. Suppose he had not gone away for that week-end party, and had not met the dark-eyed girl with the throaty contralto? But he had.

"I love you, Mary," he told her again. She laughed a little tremulously. "I love you, too," she said. "Oh, darling, isn't life fun?" "With you it is hilarious," he agreed. "Silly! But I'm glad you came along."

For so long a time Craig always had called Judy when he first returned from a trip, that he mechanically reached for the telephone in their suite. When the operator told him that the Rogers' bureau was disconnected, his brows drew together. He glanced through the directory, found Marjorie Barton's number, and made another call.

"Marjorie, this is Craig Denby. I thought you might be in Ethiopia or New Guinea. But I took a chance."

"Craig—congratulations! I know Mary, and she's a darling. When may I expect you for dinner? I'll get a party together."

There was more of that, and then Craig said: "Marjorie, where can I reach Judy?" "Hadden't you heard that she was going abroad?" "No," He wondered why he felt so disappointed. Old friendship, of course. But he did want to see Judy. He wanted Mary to meet her. He wanted them to like each other. "When did she sail?" "Judy made her plans so suddenly. I wasn't there," Marjorie's calm voice was answering. "I'll call her father. He'll know." "Sorry, Craig, but he's in the west. The Rogers have left the city for a year or so, it seems."

So Craig sent Judy a cable in care of her mother that evening, and the cable came back stating that she was not there. He again telephoned Marjorie and received an evasive answer. Judy was being cocky, according to Marjorie's viewpoint, but if that was
